

COMMISSION OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

SEC(91) 2263 final

Brussels, 3 December 1991

REPORT FROM THE COMMISSION TO THE COUNCIL

on cooperation with European non-governmental development organizations (NGDOs) in spheres concerning developing countries (1990 financial year)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. At its meeting on 28 November 1977, the Council approved the procedure to be followed for using the appropriations in item 9410 of the Community budget for cofinancing operations with the NGOs. (*)

Under this procedure the Commission has to present an annual report to the Council on the use of the appropriations allocated during the preceding year.

The Commission presents this report for 1990 accordingly.

2. Although the Council gave its approval for the appropriations under item 9410 only, this report also covers other major spheres of cooperation with the NGOs, such as food aid, emergency aid, special programmes and coordination between NGOs. The various contributions made by the relevant Commission departments provide an overview.

INTRODUCTION¹

1. In 1990, joint action by the non-governmental development organizations (NGDOs) and the European Community in the developing countries dated back barely 16 years. It is therefore recent compared with the bulk of development cooperation conducted by the Community since it was set up more than 30 years ago, but it is very dynamic and offers a great deal of scope.

In the early days, this action was conducted in three spheres: emergency aid and food aid for sections of the population in need and the joint implementation with partners on the spot of grassroots projects. In the meantime, it has been extended to cover many other programmes in a very wide range of spheres.

The Community's present contribution to the NGDOs' action in the main spheres amounts to some ECU 320 million a year, and this represents some 10% of the Community's financial commitment for its entire development cooperation. The financing of grassroots development projects accounts for over a quarter of this.

The work done in conjunction with the NGDOs is targeted at people in developing countries throughout the world, particularly the poorest sections of the population and those in distress. The bulk is financed from the Community budget, and a small proportion by the European Development Fund (EDF).

2. The first emergency aid and food aid operations which the Community called upon the NGDOs to carry out revealed their ability to deliver aid very quickly to the recipients, at minimum cost and with minimum wastage. The traditional solidarity of the NGDOs with people in distress, their ability to mobilize a large number of committed volunteers and experts in emergencies, and the many links which they forged a long time ago with associations and leading figures on the spot in the Third World mean that this aid is not supplied anonymously or mechanically, but that it is adapted as far as possible to the situation and real needs of the victims and is as a matter of course accompanied by the necessary humanitarian assistance. These qualities were put to the test during the major famines in Africa when the NGDOs' action saved hundreds of thousands of men, women and children.

¹ It was considered advisable to include this introduction, which already appeared in 1989, in the 1990 report (the figures have obviously been updated). This is because it contains a very useful summary of the background to cooperation between the NGDOs and the Community and the basic principles and specific nature of this cooperation.

3. The NDDOs' solidarity is not confined to rescue operations. Their experience of the realities of the developing world acquired from close, sustained relations with partners on the spot has led them to reflect upon and work towards a different form of development. Aware of the living conditions and needs of the the grassroots population, implementing projects for and through them, and forced to invest limited resources as efficiently and as with as much impact as possible, the NGOs have succeeded in avoiding many erroneous concepts and mistakes which have affected the development cooperation work undertaken by the public sector. The aim of the NGOs and their partners is therefore not to develop or maintain macroeconomic structures, or carry out large-scale modernization requiring hefty technical and financial resources, and intervention by national elites and foreign experts, but rather to work patiently and cautiously on establishing basic structures and conditions which ultimately represent the only way of promoting self-reliant development in the Third World.

4. This approach to development, which is peculiar to the NGOs, has given rise to results which the experts unanimously regard as very positive. It is therefore only natural that it should be recommended to leading agents of public-sector development cooperation such as the European Community and its Member States. While the operations conducted by the Community may draw inspiration from the NGOs' know-how, it is not possible to copy them faithfully on a very large scale. That is why the Community, like its Member States, has endeavoured to draw conclusions from the NGO approach where it is possible to apply them in major cooperation operations, and provides backing for the NGOs in order to reinforce their grassroots activities and so magnify the development impact for the recipient populations.

This Community backing usually takes the form solely of a financial contribution to the operations presented by the NGOs. This method ensures that the initiative remains with the NGOs and enables the NGOs to commit human and financial resources sources when preparing and carrying out their projects.

5. This framework for cooperation has made it possible to implement to date almost 4 000 projects with 450 NGOs in 121 developing countries. The total amount of the joint investment by the NGOs and the Community, from 1976 to 1990, was of the order of ECU 1 200 million, with a financial contribution from the Community of the order of ECU 493 million.

The content of these operations is extremely varied but is concentrated on three main aspects: rural development, training and health. Most of the operations nevertheless cover a number of sectors, thereby reflecting the integrated approach characteristic of NGO operations.

6. In the course of this cooperation, close, stable relations have been established between the NGOs and the Community.

There has been diversification over recent years in the joint operations undertaken, so that they now go far beyond the initial spheres of cooperation which were food aid, emergency aid and the cofinancing of small development projects. The NGOs are now involved in some 30 Community programmes of cooperation with developing countries, most of which are financed from the Community budget, but also from the European Development Fund (EDF) under the Lomé Convention. Some of these joint operations are recent: for example, the programmes of support for NGO operations in Chile or for victims of apartheid were set up in 1986, the drug abuse control programme and the programme to help the population of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip in 1987, and the programme for the SADCC states in 1988, and so on. This diversification reflects the NGOs' capacity to play a part in a large number of sectors, and in particular in spheres in which no role can be played by the Community's official cooperation.

7. A sphere which is viewed as particularly important by the Community and by the NGOs concerns operations aimed at making the European public aware of the problems of development and cooperation with the countries of the South. These operations, cofinanced by the Community, are conducted by the NGOs in the various Member States and are aimed at very specific target groups: the media, schools, trade associations, etc. They are vital for maintaining and strengthening understanding of what is at stake in cooperation with the developing countries: the various aspects linked with North-South interdependence and also the political and economic interests, the promotion of human rights and the safeguarding of peace. At present ongoing, sustained efforts to that end are all the more necessary in that the public in the Community is in danger of feeling increasingly less concerned by North-South relations and the many serious problems facing the Third World, in view of the prospects of 1993 and the political and economic upheavals in Eastern Europe.

Lastly, the NGOs' campaign to increase public awareness is particularly valuable in contributing to intercultural understanding and exchange, which are becoming increasingly important factors in cooperation with the developing countries and in the cohabitation of communities of different ethnic origins and cultures in Europe. Making people more aware of other people's traditions, cultures and values and helping to promote respect and tolerance among people of different cultures is by no means the most insignificant contribution towards the establishment of an open Europe which is faithful to its humanist traditions, and which sees its cooperation with the countries of the South as a link between partners which accept one another as equals and show solidarity towards one another.

8. The NGDOs do not confine their cooperation to carrying out operations in the Third World and awareness campaigns. This cooperation has been broadened over the years to include an exchange of views on development problems in general: trade, debt, demography, environment and migration, etc. The Commission considers that this exchange of views is a useful addition to the discussions conducted within the Community, with the governments of the developing countries and in international institutions.

In this context, particular mention should be made of the role of the Liaison Committee of the NGDOs. This body, which acts as permanent representative of the European non-governmental development organizations, is responsible not only for coordination and cooperation between its member organizations but above all for liaison with the Community institutions, namely Parliament, the Council and the Commission. In this capacity it allows for the exchange of information on development policies and schemes, and helps to ensure that the NGDOs' experience in, and approach to, development are made known to the Community's decision-making bodies.

COOPERATION WITH THE NGOS IN 1990

In 1990, the Community contribution to the various operations carried out by the NGOs amounted to about ECU 318.5 million, the breakdown of which is as follows:

ECU 80.9 million for cofinancing and development schemes in the developing countries¹ (item 9410 and allocations 41 and 51);

ECU 9.3 million for cofinancing public information campaigns in the Community (item 9410);

ECU 122.7 million for food aid delivered by the NGOs (Chap. 92);

ECU 5.2 million for the purchase of foodstuffs by the NGOs (Article 951);

ECU 37.7 million for emergency aid delivered by the NGOs (Chapter 95 and Lomé Convention);

ECU 10.3 million for refugees and displaced persons (Article 936);

ECU 5 million to step up NGO activities in Chile (Article 992);

ECU 3.7 million for drug abuse control (Article 949);

ECU 30.0 million for aid for victims of apartheid (item 9530);

ECU 13.2 million to help the population of the frontline states (item 9531);

ECU 0.5 million to help the population in the West Bank and Gaza territories (Article 966).

This total contribution of ECU 318.5 million represents a considerable increase (14%) over the previous year (1989: ECU 279.0 million). It should be pointed out that the above list shows only the largest spheres of cooperation with the NGOs, and those in which NGO activities are financed regularly and for sizeable amounts. In recent years, there have in addition been pilot and one-off operations, carried out by the NGOs to help developing countries and financed either from other budget headings or by the European Development Fund (EDF). Since these operations are administered on a decentralized basis by a large number of Commission departments, it was not possible to track them all down in detail for the purposes of this report.

It is planned to compile a survey of these operations in order to obtain a complete record of all Community contributions to NGO activities.

The following chapters contain a more detailed account of the various spheres of cooperation with the NGOs in 1990.

¹ including various other contributions amounting to ECU 1.5 million (see Table III at Annex)

1. COFINANCING OF DEVELOPMENT SCHEMES AND PUBLIC INFORMATION CAMPAIGNS
(Item 9410 of the budget)

The appropriations for commitment entered in the 1990 budget under Item 9410 amounted to ECU 90 million. In addition there was ECU 0.2 million in the form of miscellaneous revenue. These resources were committed at the end of the year.

The Table below shows how Article 941 of the budget has evolved in recent years:

Year	Appropriations available - in ECU million -	Commitments	Commitment rate as %
1976	2.5	2.5	100
1979	12.5	12.2	98
1982	28.0	26.9	96
1984	35.0	34.4	98
1986	46.0	45.0	98
1987	62.8	62.8	100
1988	80.0	79.8	100
1989	80.0	79.6	100
1990	90.2	90.2	100

In 1990, the overall figures for operations cofinanced (development schemes and information campaigns) were as follows:

1 008 cofinancing dossiers dealt with by the Commission's departments, requesting a total Community contribution of ECU 174.2 million;

564 operations cofinanced, with a Community contribution of ECU 88.7 million¹ (i.e., in financial terms, 51% of the total dossiers handled);

177 dossiers, requesting financing of ECU 33.6 million, which were not accepted or were withdrawn (i.e. 19%);

267 dossiers, representing a request for financing amounting to ECU 51.8 million, carried over to 1991 (i.e. 30%).

The appropriations for payment under Item 9410 available in 1990 amounted to ECU 74.1 million. The disbursements effected during the year also amounted to ECU 74.1 million (i.e. 100%), of which ECU 40.8 million for the operations financed in 1990 and ECU 33.3 million for operations financed in previous years.

¹ There are also other miscellaneous contributions amounting to ECU 1.5 million (see Table III at annex).

As in recent years, the NGOs continued to make heavy demands on the limited resources at the Commission's disposal. While the number of requests dealt with in 1990 (1 008) is roughly the same as in 1989 (1 009), in financial terms the overall demand made by the NGOs in 1990 (ECU 174.2 million) exceeded the already high figure recorded in 1989 (ECU 162.4 million). This once again made it necessary for the Commission to carry over to 1991 a large number of requests (267 dossiers amounting to ECU 51.8 million, i.e. 30% of the available budget in 1990).

The rigorous selection procedure which the Commission has had to apply has of necessity meant that certain NGOs which presented valid projects had to be disappointed. As in the past, the Commission has endeavoured to safeguard the basic principles on which cofinancing is based, namely maintenance of a high standard for the schemes cofinanced, ensuring the "small" NGOs have access to funds, special attention for schemes put forward by Spanish, Portuguese and Greek NGOs, and rapid decision-making, etc.

It is to be hoped that the increase in the cofinancing budget granted for 1991 (ECU 104.2 million) will make it possible to improve the situation compared with 1990. It is only to be expected, however, that as in the past demand by the NGOs will continue to increase over the next few years, and can be absorbed only if budget allocations increase at the same rate.

1.1. Cofinancing of development schemes in developing countries

In 1990, as in previous years, the Commission channelled approximately 88% of the appropriations under item 9410 into the cofinancing of operations conducted in the developing countries, the balance being earmarked mainly for cofinancing campaigns to increase public awareness in the Community.

As regards operations in the developing countries, the situation regarding requests and commitments is the same:

824 cofinancing dossiers handled by the Commission, requesting a total Community contribution of ECU 154.8 million;

450 operations cofinanced, with a Community contribution of ECU 79.4 million;

133 dossiers, requiring financing of ECU 26.8 million, not accepted or withdrawn;

241 dossiers, representing a financing request of ECU 48.6 million, carried over to 1991.

Table III at annex gives the breakdown of cofinancing by Member State.

1.1.1. Type and scale of operations: block grants

Table IV at annex contains the detailed breakdown of the 450 operations cofinanced in 1990 in the developing countries.

As in the past, these operations concern the three sectors in which the requirements, initiatives and development opportunities of the population of the developing countries are situated and which therefore constitute the traditional field of action of the NGOs: rural development, training and health. The operations cofinanced usually consist of a whole range of activities involving more than one sector. They also reflect the integrated approach to development, advocated by the NGOs as the best way of initiating self-reliant grassroots development.

There is a slight increase in the funds allocated to cofinancing: in 1990 the average Community contribution was ECU 176 418 per operation, compared with ECU 160 000 in 1989.

This reflects the NGOs' preference for small-scale operations tailored largely to local conditions and the partner's management potential. It is confirmed by the fact that 50% of the cofinancing allocated (not including block grants) was between ECU 60 000 and ECU 250 000 (= ECU 116 418 above/below average), 22% below ECU 60 000 and 28% above ECU 250 000, although the Community contribution may be as much as ECU 500 000, or even ECU 1 million in the case of a consortium.

The 450 development operations cofinanced in 1990 comprised 97 block grants representing a commitment of ECU 9.7 million - a facility which the Commission is able to offer to NGOs which have concluded a number of cofinancing contracts over a given period. The block grants enable these NGOs to finance more quickly and more flexibly very small mini-operations (from a minimum of ECU 1 000 to a maximum of ECU 15 000) presented to them by their partners in the developing countries, and so they are particularly appreciated. The following table shows how block grants have evolved in recent years, and reflects the rise in the number of mini-operations which this facility has made possible.

Year	Amount of block grants (ECU million)	% of commitments under Item 9410	Number of block grants	Number of mini-operations	Average amount of Community contribution per mini-operation (ECU)
1982	1.2	4	25	161	7 453
1983	2.3	7	34	296	7 770
1984	3.1	9	39	383	8 202
1985	3.7	11	43	450	8 146
1986	5.7	13	50	671	8 507
1987	6.8	11	59	822	8 272
1988	8.8	11	79	961	9 153
1989	9.9	12.4	96	1 082	9 105
1990	9.7	10.8	97	1 099	8 857

1.1.2. Recipient populations and countries

The 450 development schemes cofinanced in 1990 were carried out in 96 developing countries.

The geographical breakdown of Community contributions to these operations is as follows:

	ECU million	1990 %	(1989) (%)	(1988) (%)
Sub-Saharan Africa	32.06	40.5	(43.5)	(43)
Latin America	25.52	32	(33.0)	(31)
Asia	16.87	21.5	(18.0)	(20)
Mediterranean	4.91	6	(4.0)	(5)
Pacific	0.04	-	(1.5)	(1)
	79.4	(100)	(100)	(100)

The breakdown between ACP countries and non-ACP countries was as follows:

	ECU million	1990 %	(1989) (%)	(1988) (%)
ACP countries	32.6	41	(44.5)	(38)
non-ACP countries	46.8	59	(55.5)	(62)
		100	(100)	(100)

The percentage of Community contributions to countries with a per capita GNP lower than US$ 500 was 46% compared with 42% in 1989.

It should nevertheless be pointed out that the above results serve only as an indication. Changes from one year to the next in the geographical breakdown are usually due to sheer chance; they only very rarely reflect a change of direction in the NGOs' activities. As regards the aid channelled to the poorest countries, it is to be remembered that the NGOs' development activities are generally geared to the poorest sections of the population in the developing countries, and that the per capita GNP does not usually play a role in the decisions taken by the NGOs and the Commission on carrying out and cofinancing an operation.

1.2. Cofinancing of public awareness campaigns in the Community

1.2.1. Operations cofinanced in 1990

In 1990, of the appropriations under Item 9410, the sum of ECU 9.35 million was committed for campaigns to heighten the public's awareness of development problems.

This year, the situation regarding requests and commitments has been as follows:

156 cofinancing dossiers handled by the Commission (not including multiproject programmes) requesting a total Community contribution of ECU 18.5 million;

86 projects cofinanced, with a Community contribution of ECU 8.5 million;

44 dossiers, requiring financing of ECU 6.8 million, not accepted or withdrawn. These dossiers represent, in terms of financing, 30% of the total number of the dossiers handled;

26 dossiers, representing a request for financing amounting to ECU 3.2 million, carried over to 1991.

Table V at annex gives a detailed list of the 86 operations cofinanced in 1990.

The NGOs' public awareness campaigns cover a very wide range of subjects and target groups. The operations cofinanced by the Community, which form only a small part of the total operations conducted by the NGOs in the Community using their own funds or bilateral funds, obviously reflect this diversity.

Among the main topics dealt with are general development problems (29 operations); the effects of the CAP on the developing countries (9 operations); 1992 - the impact of the single market and the 500th anniversary (8 operations); environment and development (7 operations), Southern Africa and apartheid (6 operations), women and development (5 operations).

The NGOs are still greatly interested in the agricultural aspects (CAP, GATT, etc.) in the Community and the links with the developing countries.

The NGOs have also started to emphasize the advisability of taking advantage of 1992 (single market, Seville world fair, etc.) in order to make public opinion more aware of the impact of Community policies in the developing countries and Latin American cultures and societies and links with Europe. The NGO General Assembly in 1990 pressed for this approach in its discussions and the resolutions which were adopted.

Multiproject programmes

On an experimental basis, the Commission has since 1988 been supporting mini-operations to heighten public awareness in the Community conducted through various associations and by various informal means as well as through the NGOs which present the programmes. The Commission's aim has been to combine its efforts with those of the NGOs in order to support the implementation of small-scale decentralized operations which would not otherwise receive direct cofinancing.

As part of this scheme, 28 programmes were cofinanced in 1990 for a total of ECU 867 657 (see Table V at Annex).

This experience has been too brief to allow in-depth evaluation, although the initial encouraging results demonstrate the usefulness of the programme. The fact that a large number of small European associations are involved in the operations reveals the special links which the NGOs have with various partners and strengthens the role of development education, particularly at local and regional level. At the same time, many of these small associations have close links with the various partners in the South, and these partners make a direct or indirect contribution to the operations. The action taken is channelled towards a whole range of target groups which are represented in the various associations, such as students, teachers, women, journalists, immigrants, local communities, etc.

1.2.2. Evaluation of campaigns to heighten public awareness of development issues¹

Ten years after cofinancing a large number of campaigns to heighten public awareness of development issues, the Commission launched an exercise aimed at in-depth evaluation of a number of the projects cofinanced. This evaluation should be regarded as forming part of a new effort on the part of the European Community to strengthen activities designed to make European public opinion aware of the vital importance of relations and cooperation with the countries of the South.

The NGOs, like their main financial partners, recognize the importance of evaluating projects intended to heighten public awareness of development issues and recently launched discussions on the matter. Most of the parties concerned expressed their interest in developing possible evaluation models in conjunction with the Commission. The interest shown and also the fact that there were so few precedents strengthened the Commission's conviction that it was necessary to devise a satisfactory method for evaluating this type of activity.

A preliminary report drawn up by an independent expert² includes various reflections on the concept of heightening public awareness of development, its historical context, analysis and classification of projects cofinanced by the Commission from 1983 to 1987 and criteria for selecting and evaluating projects.

This study proposes an evaluation which will focus mainly on projects aimed at increasing awareness of development issues the educational component of which relates to agri-food and industrial restructuring and which are intended to have an impact on agricultural associations, industrial and trade union associations, the public in general, or a specialized section of the public. These two sectors were chosen in view of the importance of Community policies in these spheres and the existence of European networks.

The preliminary report was distributed to the NGOs, the Liaison Committee and its working party on public awareness of development issues, and this made it possible to hold wide-ranging discussions with those involved. In November 1989 the Commission made three research teams responsible for evaluation, namely: the "Institut d'Etudes du Développement de l'Université Catholique de Louvain", the Peace Research Centre (Catholic University of Nijmegen) and "Economie et Humanisme" (linked with the University of Lyon).

1 This is a brief outline of the summary report compiled by the Institute of Development Studies of the Université Catholique de Louvain, and the Peace Research Centre of the Katholieke Universiteit Nijmegen and "Economie et Humanisme", entitled: Evaluation of campaigns to heighten public awareness of development issues cofinanced by the European Community. 3rd stage - April 1991

2 Doris Voorbraak: "Evaluation des projets d'éducation au développement cofinancés par la Communauté Européenne, Rapport préparatoire, CCE", Brussels, November 1988.

A. Evaluation stages

The evaluation was conducted in three stages:

1. Projects and networks which were of special interest from the point of view of the general problems of promoting awareness of development issues were picked out from among the 31 projects and two networks under consideration. The mainly descriptive approach resulted in the selection of 22 projects (13 agricultural projects and nine industrial projects) and two networks, one agricultural and the other industrial, on the basis of feasibility and usefulness.
2. Analysis of the context, design, development and impact of the operations with the dual aim of compiling a record and laying the basis for comparative analysis. In a pluralist approach, a number of evaluation methods were adopted, and involved mainly: study of Commission and NGDO dossiers; individual or group discussions with those involved (NGDO project organizers and representatives from target groups); the sending of questionnaires; observation of the activities conducted as part of campaigns to heighten awareness of development issues, etc. This stage was concluded with the drafting of studies by project and by network, which were also given to the respective NGDOs.
3. The final stage took the form of a comparative and horizontal analysis of projects and networks in order to draw conclusions and draft recommendations of a specific nature in the case of the agricultural and industrial sectors and the networks and of a general nature regarding the heightening of development awareness.

In order to lend support to this final stage, the Commission arranged a meeting in September 1990 with the NGDOs involved in the evaluation in order to hold discussions and hear their views.

B. Objectives and impact on target groups of campaigns to heighten awareness of development issues

The overall objective of the projects evaluated was to convey to the various target groups the problems which arise in agriculture and industry in the context of the interdependence between North and South, and to make the heightening of awareness of development issues part of the work of those engaged in agricultural and industrial activities.

The target groups comprise those working in agriculture and industry and generally belonging to representative organizations such as farmers' associations and trade unions, other social movements and NGDOs. A small number of projects have targeted their activities at the general public.

Although the target groups are a relatively new aspect of the promotion of awareness of development issues and although the projects have had varying degrees of success, on the whole it would seem that, in the light of the overall objective, positive results have been obtained.

In terms of institutional impact, one of the most important results is access to the organizations representing the target groups, giving rise to cooperation between the NGOs and these organizations on matters of joint interest.

Cooperation with the various organizations in the agricultural community - trade organizations, young farmers' movements, groups of farmers, teachers, etc. - generated a new form of activity aimed at promoting awareness of development issues. In some cases it involved one-off operations, and in others developed into ongoing operations recognized by the target groups concerned and focusing on a number of topics such as: repercussions of the common agricultural policy for the developing countries, food aid and agricultural surpluses, effects of international trade on the developing countries, etc.

Progress has been made on industrial projects in terms of involving trade union instructors in the promotion of awareness of development issues as an integral part of trade union education. Ground has also been won in terms of the convergence of interest between the NGOs and the trade unions regarding the consequences of industrial restructuring in Europe and in the countries of the South.

The two networks, as linking structures, increased the partnership and complementary links through joint programmes launched by various types of NGO (active members, and other NGOs) and by European partners (social and trade organizations representing agricultural and industrial sectors).

As regards the general impact on the promotion of awareness of development issues, the two networks exert an innovatory pull and are a powerful instrument in adapting development awareness programmes to the target groups. They greatly emphasize the need for critical assessment of European policies in the promotion of development awareness and make it possible to focus more specifically on interdependence between North and South. The two networks must nevertheless endeavour not to remain bound by their geographical, cultural and organizational origins (basically the southern European countries in the case of the agricultural network and the northern European countries in the case of the industrial network).

C. General prospects for the promotion of awareness of development issues

Various general prospects for the promotion of awareness of development issues may be gleaned from analysis of the campaigns evaluated in three main areas: (a) the concept of the promotion of awareness of development issues; (b) partnership with those in the South concerned with development; (c) the European dimension.

- (a) The concept of a relatively new type of promotion of development awareness devised by the NGOs comprises certain aspects which need to be stressed: there is the importance which the NGOs attach to the need for society in general (at local, regional and other levels) to contribute to the promotion of development awareness by establishing links and coordinating proposals which could have an impact on centres of power and decision-making. There is also the inclusion of topics linked with the concept of interdependence and based on the definition of the North and the South's interests. These topics form part of the specific realities experienced by the target groups in the North linked with the various forms of participation of those involved in the South.

As a result of these innovatory approaches, action has been taken with the aim of associating a wide range of collectivities in the design and implementation stages of campaigns to heighten development awareness.

- (b) The evaluation exercise pointed up the importance of closer and more in-depth cooperation between the NGOs and the partners in the South in increasing awareness in the North of development issues. This type of cooperation makes it possible to link the promotion of development awareness more closely with specific help for development processes, programmes and projects in the countries of the South.

Analysis of the projects evaluated shows that at present this type of collaboration does not take place systematically. This is explained by lack of resources (lack of direct contacts, cost of establishing such contacts, etc.) and also in some cases by NGOs' difficulty in perceiving the usefulness of this form of cooperation or working out how to put it into practice.

In a general context in which the increasing willingness of the NGOs to rely on the components of society in general in the South - which should also have a role in promoting development awareness - is combined with the problems of interdependence, partnership with the Third World is a target for the future. It is essential that the point of view of the partners in the South should be properly understood on this matter, and the European public must also discover the existence and activities of the NGOs and other socio-economic organizations in the countries of the South (with the resulting development opportunities and trends).

- (c) The European dimension is an important part of the innovatory nature of the promotion of development awareness. The presence of this dimension in the projects evaluated constitutes a guideline and its importance is recognized by the European Community and by the NGOs. It plays a role in many projects on either a thematic or a relational basis.

The topics dealt with are generally linked with Community policies and the educational approach is based on the concept that in an increasing number of cases the problems have a universal, cross-frontier component, even though they have specific effects for particular groups in the Community and in the countries of the South.

The relational European dimension often seems to develop in the wake of a thematic European dimension, taken into account in development awareness campaigns. It has the same degree of impact but its impact is less precise. It predominates in the two networks, but in the other projects it often gives rise to cooperation confined to certain Community Member States, since most of the NGOs work above all in a national or local context.

In view of the process of Europeanization of decision-makers and national policies and the NGO's efforts to influence at European level the various target groups connected with development cooperation, this dimension should be considerably strengthened in the future.

1.3. Cofinancing programme from 1976 to 1990

The cofinancing programme under Item 9410 was launched in 1976 on a trial basis and it was given a small amount of appropriations for commitment, namely ECU 2.5 million. In subsequent budgets, partly as a result of the active support given by Parliament, these appropriations were gradually increased and in 1990 reached ECU 90 million. The table on page 6 shows how the appropriations available under Item 9410 have evolved since 1976.

During this period, 4 746 NGO operations were cofinanced; the total Community contribution to these operations was ECU 539.2 million.

The breakdown of operations in the developing countries and operations to promote awareness was as follows:

1976-90
	Number of operations	EC contribution (ECU million)	%
operations in the developing countries	3 973	492.6	91
operations to promote awareness	773	46.6	9
total	4 746	539.2	100

The 3 973 development operations were conducted by 494 NGOs in 121 developing countries.

The geographical breakdown of Community contributions to these operations is as follows:

1976-90
	ECU million	%
Sub-Saharan Africa	210.2	42.5
Latin America	156.0	32
Asia	97.3	20
Mediterranean	26.0	5.5
Pacific	3.1	-
Total	492.6	100

The ACP countries received 44% and the non-ACP countries 56% of the total Community contribution.

Tables I and II at Annex show respectively the breakdown by recipient developing country and by Community Member State.

The 773 awareness campaigns were implemented by 284 NGOs in the twelve Member States.

Half of all the operations cofinanced, and some 60% of all the funds committed, were cofinanced, and committed, during the last four financial years, from 1986 to 1990. These percentages reflect the rapid growth of the cofinancing programme over the last few years, but also an increase in the average financial scale of the operations cofinanced, owing mainly to inflation and the emergence of larger operations conducted by consortia formed by NGOs. The average Community contribution to operations in the developing countries rose from ECU 123 000 in 1985 to ECU 176 418 in 1990, and the average contribution to awareness campaigns from ECU 53 000 to ECU 82 027.

11. OTHER AREAS OF COOPERATION WITH NGDOs

2.1 Food aid channelled through NGDOs (Budget Chapter 92)

The value of Community food aid channelled through the NGDOs in 1990 was put at ECU 122.7 million, down 3.28% on the 1989 figure of ECU 127 million.

The NGDO share of all the food aid financed from the resources of Chapter 92 was 24.5%.

Food aid cooperation with the NGDOs goes through EURONAIID. This is an organization set up and run by those European NGDOs who act as the most frequent major suppliers of Community food aid (for more details, see the Commission Report on cooperation with NGDOs, COM(91)52 final).

The Commission and EURONAIID maintain permanent contact to enable them to coordinate and improve the way the various NGDOs deliver and use the aid.

On the spot, the third arm of this cooperation consists of Commission delegations which play an active part at every stage in the implementation of food aid operations.

The combined total of products made available to the NGDOs was 255 044 tonnes, broken down as follows:

Product	Quantities (tonnes)	Percentage change on 1989
- cereals	194 573	- 10.4%
- milk powder	21 980	+ 2.4%
- butteroil	385	- 339.0%
- sugar	2 996	- 11.2%
- vegetable oil	10 700	+ 235.0%
- beans	23 585	+ 292.0%
- dried fish	825	+ 4.9%
TOTAL	255 044	+ 1%

The situation in 1990, as compared with 1989, is described below.

- (i) There was a fall in the amount of cereals and sugar provided, chiefly as a result of budgetary problems in 1990, but also because sugar has relatively little nutritional value.
- (ii) There was a sharp fall in the quantities of butteroil. In 1990, the surplus from the 1989 programme was used. Butteroil is no longer used.
- (iii) The quantities of vegetable oil, beans and, to a lesser extent, dried fish placed at the disposal of the NGOs increased considerably. Sizeable NGO requests and the withdrawal of butteroil were responsible for the increase in the quantities of vegetable oil.
- (iv) More available finance for "other products" meant that larger quantities of fish and beans could be provided. However, this rise was not enough to cover all NGO requests.

A. Types of operation

In 1990, the NGOs ran food operations in the following fields (calculations based on tonnages):

	1990	(1989)
- development projects	29.1	(32.5)
- refugee projects	1.7	(6.8)
- humanitarian projects	61.2	(44.4)
- emergency operations	8.0	(16.3)

Humanitarian projects showed a sharp rise on 1989.

The disastrous situation in Africa (war, famine, etc.) meant that a number of development projects had to give way to humanitarian operations.

There were fewer emergency and refugee projects.

B. Breakdown by region

Table VI (see attached) gives an overall breakdown of the food aid channelled through NGOs, by region.

In ACP countries (see Table VII), there was an increase for all products save butteroil and sugar. This is glaring evidence of the continuing onslaught of drought, poor harvests and war, etc., in Africa.

In Asia (see Table VIII), deliveries of cereals were up sharply as a result of an appropriation for Afghan refugees in Pakistan. However, quantities of vegetable oil were down as this product is not to the taste of local populations.

In Central America (see Table IX), supplies of sugar, vegetable oil and beans were up while cereals were down.

A reduction in the number of refugee projects in Guatemala and a problem with an NGO in Nicaragua meant that products intended for these countries went to Africa instead.

There was a considerable fall in the amount of products sent to South America (see Table X). This was because requests from Brazil and Colombia were turned down as their gross national product (GNP) was too high. The amount of products for Chile was also cut in view of the improved food situation there while the reverse was true for disaster-stricken Peru.

The fall in aid to the Maghreb countries (see Table XI) is evidence of the problem with Algeria.

The fact that no relief was given to Lebanon or Jordan accounts for the fall in deliveries to the Mashreq countries (see Table XII).

Products from the previous year's programme were channelled into Lebanon in 1990, despite the serious problems encountered.

In Egypt, there was a rise in cereals and a fall in milk powder. All NGO requests for the latter were, however, met.

C. Emergency food aid

Towards the end of the year, two lots of emergency aid were approved for Ethiopia and Sudan.

Aid in the form of 10 000 tonnes of cereals and 500 tonnes of vegetable oil was granted to the LWF/JRP (Lutheran World Federation/Joint Relief Partnership) with 5 233 tonnes of cereals and 36 tonnes of beans going to the NGO, Concern.

D. Mobilization of food aid

During 1990, the mobilization of food aid proved overall to be very satisfactory. Commission invitations to tender continued to arouse active interest among producers, enabling satisfactory prices to be obtained, especially for cereals and for milk powder, which continued its downward 1989 price trend.

Countries in the Horn of Africa (Sudan and Ethiopia) were still the main targets for aid, and received regular deliveries of all types of products (wheat, flour, oil, milk powder, sugar, beans and dried fish). However, budgetary constraints mean that the very high transportation costs involved constitute a fundamental problem for the future.

The Gulf Crisis gave rise to a most pressing need for a delivery of milk powder to meet the needs of refugees in Jordan.

Similarly, 75 tonnes of milk powder were sent as an emergency response to the situation in Angola.

Conditions in Liberia in 1990 prevented allocated aid from being delivered there.

In North Africa, aid for Sahrawi refugees was held up because of domestic transport problems.

E. Budget item 9281 (Community contribution to storage programmes and early warning systems)

The following operations were approved during 1990:

Mozambique

- CRIAA	ECU 245 764
- Deutsche Welthungerhilfe	ECU 100 000
- Deutsche Welthungerhilfe	ECU 100 000

Sudan

- Concern ECU 74 000

ECU 1 400 000 was also approved for Chad, enabling the early warning system set up by the Belgian NGO, AEDS, to be continued.

2.2 Food purchases by the NGOs
(Budget Item 9411)

The Regulation currently applicable to this budget facility enables foodstuffs and seeds to be cofinanced and does not limit action to emergency situations alone. In 1990, ECU 8 419 000 was provided for NGOs to cofinance the purchase of food and seeds.

Operations in the following countries were carried out:

Country	Number of operations	EC contribution (ECU)
A. 1989 Budget: implemented in 1990
Ethiopia	1	458 638
Sudan	1	392 847
B. 1990 Budget: implemented in 1990
Algeria	1	70 077
Angola	1	635 368
Ethiopia	2	2 599 558
India	1	62 768
Madagascar	1	68 018
Mozambique	3	545 237
Malawi	1	382 590
Nicaragua	1	84 412
Rwanda	1	293 640
Pakistan	1	148 877
Thailand	1	331 734
C. 1990 Budget: implemented in 1991
Ethiopia	1	1 860 895
Philippines	1	113 379
Sudan	2	990 852
TOTAL	20	9 038 890

Total amount allocated from the 1990 Budget: ECU 8 187 405.

Aid was given for:
the victims of civil war, refugees, the poor, the disadvantaged, undernourished adults and children, the promotion of agricultural development programmes, and post-drought emergency assistance.

2.3 1990 Community emergency aid for developing countries and other countries affected by disasters

1. The Commission responded to the various disasters that struck in 1990, sometimes within a few hours of receiving initial reports. A total of ECU 114 855 000 in emergency aid was approved in 1990 for the victims of disasters in developing and other countries. This included a European Development Fund allocation of ECU 41 620 000 under the Lomé Convention for the population of disaster-stricken ACP countries and ECU 73 235 000 in emergency aid from the 1990 Community Budget.

2. A sizeable amount of emergency aid under the European Development Fund was again given in 1990 to the victims of conflict in Africa, and included ECU 9 975 000 for Liberia and affected neighbouring states. Two substantial grants were made for victims in Angola, Ethiopia, Sudan and Mozambique, where the impact of war has been exacerbated by widespread drought.

3. Under the 1990 Community Budget ECU 47 800 000 was granted to support the victims of the Gulf Crisis.¹ The money was used mainly for the emergency transportation, by air, sea and land, of those fleeing Iraq and Kuwait, and for relief in kind for refugee camps. The Commission also provided ECU 11 120 000 to finance huge medical and food programmes for those affected by events in Romania in late 1989. In December 1990, ECU 4 million in emergency aid was released for the people affected by the delicate domestic situations in the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Romania. Similarly, the victims of wars in Cambodia and Lebanon received ECU 2 670 000 and ECU 1 275 000 respectively. Relief also went to earthquake victims in Iran (ECU 2 million), the Philippines and Peru, and to those hit by flooding and typhoons.

¹ The ECU 10.7 million in food aid should be added, bringing the total amount of EC aid in 1990 for the victims of the Gulf Crisis to ECU 58.5 million.

4. Most Community emergency aid in 1990 went to finance relief, medical and food aid teams, and the provision of shelter, clothes and other basic necessities. It was implemented mainly by specialized international organizations, NGOs and, more specifically for emergency operations related to the Gulf Crisis, by the Commission itself. Table XIII (see attached) gives the breakdown of emergency aid by implementing body.

5. As part of the relevant Community coordination procedures, Commission emergency aid operations and those of the Member States were closely coordinated. Figures received by the Commission show that emergency aid from the Member States totalled over ECU 202 million, as follows:

	(ECU '000)		(ECU '000)
Belgium	9 333	Italy	5 617
Denmark	27 690	Luxembourg	3 136
France	11 383	Netherlands	29 298
FRG	54 575	Portugal	472
Greece	260	Spain	7 305
Ireland	2 098	United Kingdom	64 535

Total Member State aid: ECU 215 702 000¹

6. Such close coordination between the Commission and Member States, backed up by a regular exchange of information in meetings of the Community's Food Aid Committee and by regular informal contacts, materialized in 1990 into several joint operations between the Commission and one or more Member States, particularly over the Gulf Crisis. This coordination at European level was supplemented by equally close cooperation between representatives of the Commission and of the Member States on the spot. Nevertheless, in countries without a Commission delegation, such on-the-spot coordination remains problematic as was seen in Romania in early 1990. It is more specifically in cases like this that the level of coordination needs to be stepped up.

¹ This figure may be lower than that for aid given by the Member States on a bilateral basis since the Commission has not been notified by the Member States of all their emergency aid decisions.

2.4 Aid towards self-sufficiency for refugees, displaced persons and voluntary returnees in Asia and Latin America (Budget Article 936)

Since 1984, following an initiative by Parliament, the Commission Budget has included an Article 936 for projects to foster self-sufficiency among refugees and displaced persons in ALA developing countries. The resources available are intended to help these groups for an interim period of two to three years after the initial emergency (covered by Article 950). Repatriation operations have been included since 1986.

Between 1984 and 1990, then, a total of ECU 121 818 000 went to finance 129 projects (including preparatory studies and evaluation missions), enabling thousands of men, women and children to achieve a certain degree of self-sufficiency in Pakistan, Afghanistan, Thailand, Sri Lanka, Central America (particularly El Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragua and Honduras), and Mexico. The aid was implemented by a variety of European NGOs (working together with their local counterparts), international organizations (chiefly UNHCR) and, to a lesser extent, government bodies.¹

Initially set at ECU 3 million in 1984, these appropriations were steadily increased at the insistence of the European Parliament to cope with the needs of these populations. In 1990, the Article 936 allocation was increased to ECU 26 million in ongoing response to the action plans decided on at the international conferences on refugees in Central America (ICRCA) Guatemala in May 1989 and in Indochina (Comprehensive Plan of Action, CPA, Geneva, June 1989).

Following the Gulf Crisis and the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait in August 1990, an extra ECU 24 million had to be released for two repatriation programmes for Asian nationals returning from Jordan to Pakistan, Bangladesh, Thailand and the Philippines.

So Article 936 applies as much to troubled areas as to those where peace is being achieved.

In 1990, ECU 32 076 000 was committed for 35 projects² with ECU 20 058 000 going to Asia and ECU 12 018 000 going to Latin America. A total of ECU 10 355 000 went to cofinance ten projects in Asia and six in Latin America, which received ECU 6 640 000 and ECU 3 715 000 respectively. This accounted for 32% of the total finance committed.

¹ A Commission working document, 1/765/90 - "Community aid to refugees, displaced persons and returnees in the developing countries of Latin America and Asia" outlines the aid granted between 1984 and 1989.

² Exclusive of special Gulf Crisis operations (ECU 24 million).

From 1990 onwards, the scope and geographical spread of NGO programmes implemented for refugees and displaced persons was expanded. Community health aid was implemented by these organizations in Pakistan, Afghanistan, Hong Kong and Thailand. These same NGOs also gave assistance for training in these countries, for rural development in Afghanistan and for the resettlement of refugees in Malaysia. In Latin America, 1990 saw the NGOs undertake new Community projects to help reintegrate various groups of returnees in El Salvador and Guatemala into their native regions.

The breakdown by beneficiary of 1990 Community commitments implemented through NGOs was as follows:

- Latin America: 6 projects covering Salvadorian, Guatemalan and Chilean returnees;
- Asia: 8 projects covering Afghan, Laotian and Vietnamese refugees.

Aid under Article 936 went to finance the investment and running costs of medium-length projects in all sectors (agriculture, livestock, fisheries, craft trades, hygiene, health and housing) and to pay for the necessary technical assistance.

Tables XIV and XV list those 1990 schemes financed with the NGOs under Article 936 for refugees and displaced persons in the ALA developing countries.

2.5 Aid for NGOs operating in Chile (Budget Article 992)

Article 992, first included in the Community budget in 1986, was allocated ECU 5 million in appropriations for commitment and payment in 1990. Its primary aim is still to help the people of Chile through NGO schemes.

During the year, 172 requests for a total of ECU 20 million were submitted by Chilean and European NGOs. Of these, 64 totalling ECU 5 million could be met from available finance. As in previous years, then, all Article 992 resources were committed.

The political transition in Chile continued apace throughout 1990 with staunch support from the democratic forces within the NGO community. This continues to be reflected to some extent in the Article 992 programme. A large number of operations were designed to help repair the country's social and democratic fabric. These operations included backing for the organization of local and regional democratic powers, management training for officials from the peasant and union movements, and the integration of women into democratic institutions etc. Many schemes also concentrated on offering civic education to Chilean communities and their representatives. The breakdown by major category was as follows:

	Number of schemes	EC contributions (ECU)
Democratic and social reconstruction	22	1 407 650
Civic education	7	689 685
Human rights	6	687 255
Humanitarian and socio-economic projects	29	2 083 731
Programme management	-	131 520
TOTAL	64	4 999 841

Schemes financed in previous years have been, or are being, completed, with very encouraging results in most cases. All in all, 151 schemes received total financial help of ECU 12 million from the Community between 1986 and 1990.

The NGOs and project beneficiaries continue to attach great value to the Article 992 programme. All our information suggests that it gives a definite boost to the Community's positive image in Chilean eyes and fosters new mutual feelings of confidence.

2.6 Programme of North-South cooperation projects in the campaign against drug abuse (Budget Article 949)

The projects put forward and carried out by the NGOs have been part of the programme since it was set up in 1987.

In 1990, 40.4% of total Article 949 commitments, totalling ECU 3 735 834, went to 17 projects implemented by 17 different NGOs in the following regions:

Region	Number of projects	EC contribution (ECU)
Asia	10	2 111 944
Latin America	5	1 315 290
Africa	2	308 600
TOTAL	17	3 735 834

In accordance with the programme's guidelines adopted by the Council on 26 January 1987, the projects are aimed at the various components of the drug problem in an attempt to stop the illegal production and marketing of drugs, and to curb and, more importantly, prevent drug taking. A few NGO projects in this area (alternative crops, training etc.) were also co-financed as part of the Article 941 programme.

2.7 Special aid programme for apartheid victims (Budget Item 9530)

1. In implementing the Community's special programme under Budget Item 9530, (ECU 10 million was made available under the 1986 Budget, ECU 20 million in 1987, ECU 25.5 million in 1988, ECU 25 million in 1989 and ECU 30 million in 1990), the Commission is working within the framework established by European Political Cooperation on 10 September 1985, part of which stipulates that assistance should be channelled through non-violent organizations, particularly the churches.

In discussions with the two main South African church organizations in late 1985 and early 1986, it became clear that an equivalent secular organization should also be established to open up access to Community assistance. As a result, the Kagiso Trust was formed. It was also decided that trade unions should constitute a fourth distinct channel.

Accordingly, four channels were established:

- the South African Council of Churches (SACC);
- Southern African Catholic Bishops' Conference (SACBC);
- the Kagiso Trust;
- the trade unions.

2. Projects put forward by these four channels for support through the Community's special programme are decided on an individual basis by the Commission, after appropriate consultation with an ad hoc group of Member State experts. No project designed to support the activities of political organizations is eligible for Community financing under this programme. Only projects which are of a peaceful, non-violent nature may be supported and these are concentrated mainly in the training/education and humanitarian/social fields.

Projects identified by the four channels in accordance with mutually agreed criteria and guidelines are submitted to the Commission for financing by a partner organization in Europe with experience of South Africa. In the case of the churches and the Kagiso Trust, this is an NGO designated by the NGO Standing Committee. In the case of the unions, it is a partner union or federation in Europe.

3. As for the implementation of the special programme, 69 projects were approved in 1990, enabling the whole budget of ECU 30 million to be committed. The ECU 24.8 million in total appropriations for payment initially available under the 1990 budget had run out by September 1990. An extra ECU 10 million was freed in December under the Notenboom procedure to honour pending contractual obligations. By the end of the year, 95% of this sum had been used up.

4. From the start of the project in 1986 to late 1990, 363 projects were approved for a total of ECU 108.6 million, thus using all available budgetary allocations.

This total amount can be broken down as follows (ECU million):

	Humanitarian/ social aid	Training/ education	Legal assistance	Total
Churches	24.1	12.5	3.5	40.1
Kagiso Trust	19.2	37.5	4.3	61.0
Trade union	1.9	1.8	3.8	7.5
TOTAL	45.2	51.8	11.6	108.6

All these projects are situated in Southern Africa, except for 23 in Namibia (ECU 4.5 million).

2.8 Support for front line States and SADCC Member States (Budget Item 9531)

In 1990, ECU 15 million was allocated to Item 9531, first introduced in 1988 to counter operations in the front line States and the Member States of the SADCC aimed at destabilizing South Africa.

The resources were used as follows:

- ECU 7 938 125 (52.9%) was granted to 12 projects for displaced communities affected by the destabilization operations. The projects aim to provide these people with means of subsistence and to set up facilities for bringing together and caring for orphans and children separated from their families.
- ECU 4 018 775 (26.8%) went to 9 health projects, dealing more specifically with care for burns victims and the handicapped. Readaptation measures were also included.
- ECU 3 043 100 (20.3%) was used for ten education and training projects, including study or training award programmes for refugees from SADCC countries subjected to destabilization, and for programmes to foster dialogue between the different communities in the region.

More than two-thirds of commitments had been paid out by the end of the financial year. This is evidence of the assiduous manner in which the projects were implemented.

NGOs ran 28 of the 31 projects, using a total of ECU 13 250 000 or 88% of available resources.

2.9 Financial assistance for the West Bank and the Gaza Strip (Budget Article 966)

Following the conclusions of the Council on 27 October 1986, a new heading (Article 966) was introduced into the Community budget in 1987 to finance development projects in the Israeli-occupied territories of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Until then, the Community had been carrying out an ad hoc programme of aid to these territories including rural development, study or training awards and other projects cofinanced with European NGOs. Between 1981 and 1986, total finance for this programme stood at approximately ECU 9 million (including ECU 4 million for NGO projects cofinanced under Article 941).

The Commission was able to finance a wider range of development activities under Article 966 and funded 41 projects in 1987, 1988, 1989 and 1990 with a total Community contribution of some ECU 17 million (1987: ECU 2.97 million; 1988: ECU 3 million; 1989: ECU 5 million; 1990: ECU 6 million). Small- and medium-scale credit operations accounted for 31.8% of available funds, 29.7% went to psychotherapy and primary health care, 14.1% to education and vocational training, 12.3% to agricultural projects, 5.6% to infrastructure schemes, 3.5% to women's production cooperatives, 0.5% to study projects and 2.5% to general technical assistance.

Of these actions, seven, representing 7.5% of available funds, were implemented by European NGOs, 42 (74.5%) by local Palestinian organizations (credit institutions, health associations etc., five (14.1%) by UNRWA, and four technical assistance projects (3%) by consultants and other European institutes.¹

Priority areas for financing under Article 966 include small- and medium-scale employment-generating projects in the agricultural and industrial sectors, technical and vocational training, and schemes aimed at strengthening local Palestinian institutions. These are identified and formulated following direct contact with local organizations in order to ensure that they correspond closely to local needs and development efforts.

¹ 3 projects (0.9%) by European research institutes.

III. CONCLUSIONS AND OUTLOOK

Over the past 15 years, cooperation with NGOs based in the Community countries has grown into one of the most active areas of the Community's development cooperation.

As in previous years, this cooperation has shown positive and encouraging results with a significant 14% rise from ECU 279 million in 1989 to ECU 318.5 million in 1990 in the amount of Community resources made available to the various NGO schemes.

As outlined in the report, joint EC-NGDO efforts cover over 30 fields. Such close collaboration reveals the high degree of confidence and credibility vested in NGDO schemes, which have always been supported by Parliament and Member States' representatives within the Council. Alongside direct government action, the Community sees the projects implemented by these NGDOs in conjunction with organizations in the South as an integral and vital part of any cooperation policy. By backing the development efforts of local communities, they enable their basic needs to be met more effectively.

However, the growing role of communities and associations in the countries of the South calls for European NGDOs and their public authority backers to give some thought to the part these organizations in the South should play in our cooperation schemes. This applies primarily to European NGDO co-financing operations both for projects in developing nations where, more than ever before, NGDOs must support and boost genuine local initiatives, and for awareness campaigns to mobilize European public opinion.

Reference should be made here to the new decentralized approach to cooperation in the Lomé IV Convention. In it, stress is placed on the efforts of ordinary citizens in ACP countries to further their own development. The same goes for organizations in Latin America and Asia. There is therefore considerable convergence between cooperation with the NGDOs and this new decentralized approach, which should in future give rise to tangible EC-backed projects.

Similarly, the EC is ready to support the various activities of NGO networks in the South and to strengthen links with European NGDO networks.

As for European campaigns to heighten awareness of development issues, the various conclusions and recommendations brought to light by the evaluation exercise will enable us to improve the current NGDO cofinancing system and, more specifically, let us give those involved in the South a bigger say in these campaigns.
