List of projects

Note to readers

This report on activities in the European Year of Safety, Hygiene and Health Protection at Work has been prepared for the general public. It is in three volumes:

Volume 1: 'Europe for health and safety at work' outlines the activities of the Commission of the European Communities and the 12 Community Member States during the European Year;

Volume 2: 'List of projects' carried out as part of the European Year. This non-exhaustive list was drawn up on 31 July 1993;

Volume 3: 'Key projects': a description of particularly important national projects which could be copied by other Member States.

In addition to this report, a formal report on the execution of the Year has also been prepared, as required by the Council Decision, for the European Parliament, the Council of Ministers, the Economic and Social Committee and the Advisory Committee on Safety, Hygiene and Health Protection at Work, and was forwarded to them.

Introduction

In accordance with the Council Decision¹ on the European Year of Safety, Hygiene and Health Protection at Work, the European Year began on 1 March 1992 and officially ended at the closing conference on 26 February 1993.

A number of organizations and bodies have been involved in organizing and monitoring the Year.

The Advisory Committee on Safety, Hygiene and Health Protection at Work²

In accordance with its mandate, this tripartite Committee has been involved in drawing up the project as well as the organizational structure of the Year. A smaller group within the Committee has been involved with all work to implement the Year.

The Advisory Steering Committee (ASC)

This Committee, established on 11 October 1991 in accordance with Article 5 of the Council Decision, has been consulted regularly about the selection of schemes covered by Part II, items A and B, of the Annex to the Decision. Comprising a representative of each Member State and chaired by a representative of the Commission, the Committee met 18 times and was regularly informed by the Commission of progress made.

The National Liaison Committees (NLCs)

In accordance with Article 2.2 of the Council Decision, a National Liaison Committee (NLC) was formed in each Member State. Composed on a tripartite basis (workers, employers, ministries), it was responsible for the coordination, assessment and selection of projects suitable for Community funding and then for the implementation of schemes at national level.

Commission staff

Coordination of the European Year was carried out by Unit V/F/5 of the Health and Safety Directorate within the Directorate-General for Employment, Industrial Relations and Social Affairs, its task being to monitor the application of the entire Council Decision and, more particularly:

² OJ L 185, 9.7.1974.

- (i) coordination with the NLCs and the Member States;
- (ii) the organization and implementation of projects planned in accordance with Part II A of the Annex to the Council Decision
- (iii) administration, general and budgetary management, including the monitoring and checking of applications for co-funding under Part II B of the Annex to the Council Decision;
- (iv) the organization and chairing of meetings of the ASC;
- (v) cooperation with other Commission departments.

In order to ensure a coherent overall programme, the Commission organized its work to take account of the complementarity and mutual multiplier effects offered by the schemes called for under the Council Decision.

In this report, the various activities are described in three chapters:

1. Activities and events on a European scale
2. Activities and events on a national scale
3. Transnational schemes

1. Activities and events on a European scale

1.1. Events organized by the Commission of the European Communities

(a) European colloquium to launch the European Year

(Item II.A.1 of the Annex to the Council Decision)

Organized with the assistance of the Portuguese Government, the conference to open the European Year of Safety, Hygiene and Health Protection at Work took place on 12 March 1992 in Lisbon, Portugal, the country then holding the Presidency of the Council of the European Communities. The conference was attended by Mr van Velzen, Chairman of the Social Affairs Committee of the European Parliament, and addressed by Mr José A. Silva Peneda, the Portuguese Minister for Employment, Ms Vasso Papandreou, Member of the European Commission responsible for employment and social affairs, Mr Jean Degimbe, Director-General of DG V, and then by Mr Buschak, representing ETUC (European Trade Union Confederation), and by Mr Castle, representing UNICE (Union of Industries of the European Community).

(b) European Video Film Festival

(Item II.A.2.a of the Annex to the Council Decision)

The European festival of training videos on safety and health protection at work was held in Thessaloniki from 15 to 17 October 1992. The aim of the event was to make people more aware of the extensive range and high quality of films now being produced in the field of training for health and safety at work and to encourage the exchange of information and experience between audiovisual companies and users in the various Member States.

This event was attended by some 1 000 people, training and safety professionals from the 12 Member States of the Community, the EFTA countries and also from Iran and Czechoslovakia.

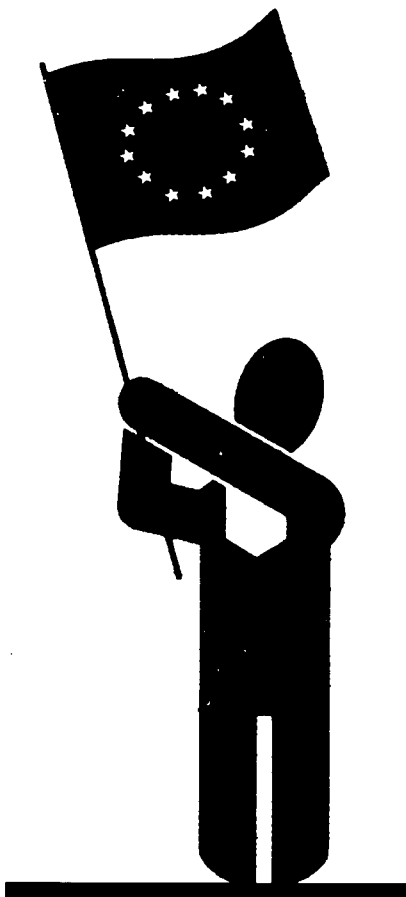

More than 350 films were viewed by the preselection jury and 323 were accepted, 59 of these being entered for the competition.

The final jury, comprising leading European figures in the field of training and safety representing trade unions, employers and the media, was chaired by Ms Melina Mercouri and awarded nine prizes, two for each category and a supreme award, the François Staedelin Memorial Prize¹ for the best video in any category.

The first prize in the category for general awareness enhancement was awarded to a British film Accidents don't happen in the office. This describes the problems encountered by two people and shows the often unrecognized hazards of office life. The second prize in this category was awarded to a French film Stop au bruit, a very didactic production describing the phenomenon of noise and measures to prevent it.

In the category for awareness enhancement among specific target groups, the first prize was awarded to the British film No going back – an intense and dramatic story of an employee paralysed after falling down slippery stairs. This film also received the François Staedelin Memorial Prize. The second prize went to another British film showing a teenager doing a work experience course on a farm and the hazards faced there.

In the 'Information' category, the first prize was awarded to a German film Easy und Isabella (Easy and Isabella), an amusing television series in 13 episodes which describes the problems of a careless worker and his wife. The second prize was also a German production Wir arbeiten gut und sicher, an educational film on the risks of falling when working with ladders.

In the 'Training' category, the first prize was awarded to a French film Prévention-intérim-industrie which examined a welding accident from three different points of view: that of the company employing the welder, the temping agency and the welder. The second prize went to the Portuguese film Segurança no trabalho sector das pescas (Occupational safety in the fishing industry), a simple, clear and precise film about safety at sea.

Finally, the award for audience favourite was won by the British film Dead serious about safety, produced by the staff of British Rail and describing an accident which killed a number of railwaymen in 1991.

Participants and the authorities responsible all agreed that the festival should not be just a one-off event.

(c) European conference to close the European Year

(Item II.A.1.b of the Annex to the Council Decision)

The European Year was closed on 26 February 1993 in Copenhagen, during the Danish Presidency, in the presence of Her Majesty Queen Margrethe II of Denmark.

At the closing conference, Mrs Jytte Andersen, Danish Minister for Employment and the then President of the Council of Social Affairs Ministers, Mr Buschak, representing ETUC (European Trade Union Confederation), Mr Castle, representing UNICE (Union of Industries of the European Community) and Mr Pronk, Member of the European Parliament, stressed how the importance of the issues involved in terms of both human lives (8 000 deaths per year) and the economy (a loss of ECU 20 billion a year) had led to the organization of this awareness-enhancement campaign.

The speakers stressed the major impact achieved by schemes during the Year, which had proved very successful despite the technical nature of the subjects tackled. All emphasized that the results achieved were essentially due to the close cooperation between worker, employer and government representatives working together in the national liaison committees and other consultative bodies assisting the Commission.

The conference also featured the presentation of prizes for the various competitions organized during the Year; the International Social Security Association (ISSA) competition, the European health and safety prize and the press competition.

1.3. Promotion of television programmes and videos

(Item II.A.2.b of the Annex to the Council Decision)

Implementation of the Council's decision to fund the promotion of television programmes and videos took due account not only of the importance of this medium and its specificity but also of budgetary constraints and the priorities imposed on producers by the nature of the audience.

Well aware of the long deadlines involved in producing and programming broadcasts, the Commission organized as early as 1991 two information sessions to bring together representatives of the major national television channels. As a result of these meetings, 25 suggested programmes meeting the objectives of the Year were submitted and 17 of these received partial funding.

Producing, reproducing

Producer: RTBF1 Télévision
Direction de l'information
Enquêtes et reportages
Boulevard Auguste Reyers, 52
B-1044 Bruxelles

Date of

broadcast: 3 December 1992 on RTBF 1 in the programme 'Autant savoir' and 4 December 1992 on TV 5

Viewers: General public

This programme deals primarily with the protection of pregnant women at work and the risks of damage to the foetus and miscarriage caused by contact with toxic products. Hospitals are particular hazard areas: health-care staff describe the problems of contact with microbes and viruses, anaesthetics, drugs (e.g. chemotherapy), radiotherapy, and the stress of demanding jobs.

In industry, serious damage has been caused by the handling of products such as lead, mercury, solvents and pesticides, and a surveillance policy is therefore justified. Examples from the United Kingdom, France and Denmark are given to illustrate the various measures taken to try and protect pregnant women.

This film was awarded the Golden Zap in the 1992 journalism awards by the Belgian Crédit Communal (Brussels).

Time bombs at work

Producer: ZDF
Zweites Deutsches Fernsehen
Essenheimer Strasse
D-55128 Mainz-Lerchenberg

Date of broadcast: The health magazine Praxis showed this programme on 11 March 1992 at 21.00, the day before the opening of the European Year of Safety, Hygiene and Health Protection at Work.

Viewers: General public

Praxis met victims of occupational diseases and occupational health experts and physicians.

In Germany there are 30 million people at work every day in factories, building sites, offices, etc., working as many as 41 billion hours every year and thus exposed to multiple health hazards; 1.9 million accidents at work and 50 000 probable cases of occupational disease were reported in 1990, and there has been a constant increase in cancer caused by toxic substances.

Studio discussion with a scientist and health and safety experts on the prospects for improvement in the long term.

Familie Lademann

Producer: ZDF
Zweites Deutsches Fernsehen
Essenheimer Strasse
D-55128 Mainz-Lerchenberg

This series of comic spots highlights the problems of the Lademann family. At work Herr Lademann has to put up with particularly difficult conditions: poor lighting, noise, understaffing. His daughter, Fräulein Lademann, is in danger of going deaf: she has no ear protection against noise at work, and she wears her Walkman the rest of the time!

Work hard, die young

Producer: TV 2 Danmark
Rugårdsvej 29
DK-5100 Odense

Date of broadcast: 27 April 1992 at 20.30

Viewers: Young people and their parents

The programme deals with the problem of spare-time jobs taken on by teenagers. Seventy per cent of adolescents work on average 17 hours a week. One third of them are working in illegal conditions. They have to lift heavy weights, and are exposed to dangerous substances and machinery. Many of them work late hours or overtime.

Every year at least 12 young people are killed and many more are seriously injured at work. Dennis, aged 17, is one of them. A year ago, a fork-lift truck fell on him, breaking his leg and damaging his spine. His employer simply had to pay a fine of DKR 10 000. Dennis will need therapy for life.

Health and safety at the workplace in Greece

Producer: 'Health and safety at the workplace'
Papadakis-Chronopoulos
Film & TV Productions
K. Paparigopoulou 40
GR-11 473 Athens

The film tries to present, in a general sense, the problem of hygiene and health of workers in Greece in all its aspects. After an outline of the nature of the problem, the film gives the historical background, explains the current situation and analyses the Commission's policies and stance on the subject. The existing Greek legislation, and the need for further legislation together with practical measures are discussed by representatives of ministries, industry and unions, as well as by specialists on the subject, such as occupational physicians, lawyers, hygienists, etc. Parallel to that, the film shows today's situation in a variety of industrial plants and factories, medical and research centres, and interviews victims of accidents at work and occupational diseases.

Safety, health and good conditions at work

Producer: IRIS Film TV
108 Lomvardou Street
GR-11474 Athens

Date of broadcast: Not indicated
Viewers: General public

In Greece, health and safety at work are still only of secondary importance. Even companies with more than 150 employees only rarely have an occupational health service. Efforts are being concentrated on bringing national legislation into line with EC requirements.

The aim of the film is to illustrate the present situation, show the action taken to prepare and implement national legislation, and provide general information for all the parties concerned (institutions, employers and workers).

Europe for safety, hygiene and health protection at work: The municipal police

Producer: RAI
Radiotelevisione Italiana
Viale Mazzini, 14
I-00195 Roma

Date of broadcast: Not yet indicated
Viewers: General public

RAI produced a 40-minute programme on the problems of the municipal police.

The programme tells the story of a journalist who is investigating the situation in Italy compared with that in other Community countries. This involves checking how certain directives to protect workers' health are being implemented. The municipal police officers act as indicators of both safety and health and environmental conditions at work: they are living proof of the degradation of their own working conditions. Their occupational diseases demonstrate this: they are poisoned by traffic fumes (lead, aromatic hydrocarbons, carbon and nitrogen oxides, benzole, aldehydes and asbestos).

In turn, they suffer medical problems of various kinds, such as respiratory and cardiovascular conditions, arthritic pain, backache, phlebitis and other venous problems (especially in women, who in Italy at least, account for 50% of the urban police force) and nervous diseases caused by stress.

Studies, statistics and interviews in four European countries show that a town's police reflect the state of health of the town and its inhabitants.

Farming — a way of life

Producer: 'Check-up' Series
RTE Radio Telefís Éireann
Dublin 4
Ireland

Date of broadcast: With the weekly health programme 'Check-up'

Viewers: General public

'Children and safety on farms'
(broadcast on 27 October 1992)

The family farm has always been both a home and a workplace for very many people in Ireland. Safety is of crucial importance, especially for children and old people.

As the size of farms increases, they are becoming more and more dangerous; in Ireland 30 people have been killed this year in accidents on farms.

This programme focuses on families in which children have been killed or injured, looking at key areas of danger on farms, and the precautions to be taken.

Absenteeism: Is it efficient?

Producer: Stichting Teleac
Postbus 2414
35 GK Utrecht
The Netherlands
Tel.: (030) 95 69 11

Date of broadcast: The eight television programmes were broadcast between 7 November 1992 and 5 January 1993 at approximately 23.30

Viewers: General public and workers in small and medium-sized firms

The eight programmes form part of the multimedia project on absenteeism comprising:

eight television programmes (30 minutes);
18 radio programmes (15 minutes);
a study manual; and a working manual.

The project is about the latest findings on cutting absenteeism and shows how the methods and techniques developed for large companies have been adapted for small and medium-sized firms.

Each programme is in the form of a documentary filmed in a different company, where management and workers are asked to think about the reasons for absenteeism and possible remedies.

Topics discussed:

1. Absenteeism in your company (from the social, financial, and medical points of view)
2. Individual advice and control (worker training)
3. Health and safety
4. Stress and pressure
5. Working out a plan of action
6. Carrying out a plan of action
- 7/8. Public health/schools (absenteeism in two non-profit-making sectors)

In the dust

Producer: RVU Educatieve Omroep
Vreelandseweg, 44
1216 CH Hilversum
The Netherlands

Date of broadcast: This special feature of the programme 'Werken aan werk' was broadcast on RVU on 6 November 1992, with plans for a repeat in August or September 1993

Viewers: General public

This film is about the health effects of organic dust, mildew and bacteria at work. Working in cereal mills, the timber industry, bakeries or composting plants means being exposed to dust with unavoidable effects on the health.

Harry Leigten, a baker, has changed jobs because he was feeling stifled by flour dust. Working in a composting plant means being exposed to 'natural' gas, mould and bacteria. A pig breeder suffers from asthma, but his son plans to carry on despite nasal problems.

A programme by Kees Schaap.

Stress at work

Producer: Meesterwerken
Televisieprogramma's
van Jos Withagen
Hengeveldstraat, 29
Postbus 9550
3506 GN Utrecht
The Netherlands

Date of broadcast: Broadcast by NCRV Television in the Netherlands on Friday 12 October 1992, from 22.50 to 23.30

Viewers: General public; will also be shown in schools and companies

Part of a series of 10 programmes on scientific subjects.

Three topics are covered:

What is stress? How does the human body react to too much tension?

How does stress develop? Stress in individuals and in groups.

How can we deal with stress? Again, in individuals and in groups.

This film is part of the Netherlands Ministry of Social Affairs scheme which culminated in the publication of How to control stress, written by the research team of the TNO (Togepast Natuurwetenschappelijk Onderzoek) and the Netherlands Institute of Preventive Medicine. The book outlines a systematic approach to controlling stress at work.

It is a documentary which emphasizes the reality of stress and its scientific basis. Concrete examples are given to help the viewer recognize stress. The film explains how to react in stress situations, both as an individual and as a member of a group.

The aim is to make viewers take positive action at their place of work.

Tomorrow will be a better day

Producer: Desire Productions BV
Havenstraat, 137
1211 KK Hilversum
The Netherlands
Title: 'Morgen kan het beter'

Date of broadcast: This educational series was shown by AVRO – Television on 21, 22, 28 and 29 March 1992, 4, 5, 11, 12, 18, 19, 25 and 26 April 1992, and 2, 3, 9, 10 May 1992

Viewers: General public (estimated at approximately 900 000 viewers)

The eight programmes form a whole and are the basis for an accompanying book with the same title.

But each programme is a distinct unit discussing the various social aspects in the widest sense. The programme is therefore of interest to a wide range of viewers: students and the unemployed as well as employers and workers.

The physical causes of absenteeism are discussed on the basis of practical examples of how and why a job may be physically intolerable. Several specialists add their comments.

A significant reduction in absenteeism calls for more than a change of mentality in employer-worker relationships or action of a legal, financial or technical nature.

'Morgen kan het beter' does not propose any miracle solutions to reduce absenteeism in the Netherlands. It tries to generate sufficient understanding for a more balanced relationship between employers, employees, and everyone concerned. It tries to set people on the right path and make them act responsibly on the basis of information and know-how.

You will see

Producer: 'You will see'
Katholieke Radio Omroep
Postbus 9000
1200 DH Hilversum
The Netherlands

Date of broadcast: 19 April to 7 June 1992

Viewers: General public

This series consists of eight 30-minute episodes with the submotto 'Fit as a fiddle on holiday'. Topics of the programmes are smoking, use of alcohol, exercise, nutrition and cohesion of character, stress and illness.

Several people with different occupations were tailed during the series; among them a chauffeur, a pilot, a manager of a large company and four members of the European Parliament. The main subjects here were the ways of spending spare time and occupational time and the attention given to health.

In one episode the four members of the European Parliament were interviewed and the European Year was referred to. By the combination 'healthy on holiday' and following several people during working hours, a clear relation was established on the necessity to focus on health during work as well as during leisure time.

Several organizations which participated in the programmes, such as the Hart Foundation and Foundation Alcon, also participated in the mobile exhibition, Expobiel (initiated by the Dutch liaison bureau), which toured the Netherlands within the framework of the European Year.

Prevention is better

Producer: Primeira Imagem
Producoes Audiovisais, LDA
Av. Mouzinho Albuquerque,
18-1° Dto
P-Lisboa

Date of broadcast: 15 June 1992

Viewers: General public

This 26-minute production filmed in Betacam SP looks at the real-life situation in Portugal.

Several Portuguese workers from different sectors are interviewed. They were all victims of accidents that could have been avoided if safety and hygiene precautions had been taken.

The programme also deals with the situation of insurance companies and the compensation paid, in order to analyse the economic impact of accidents at work.

The project covered the whole country, presenting the sectors with the highest accident rates and the efforts made to reduce them.

An agreement was recently concluded in Portugal between the government, the trade unions and the employers' associations on the prevention of occupational hazards and the compensation and rehabilitation of accident victims.

Five examples of good health and safety policies in different European countries:

1. Buses in Stockholm: how Stockholm's main bus company treats its drivers
2. Occupational medicine centre in Aarhus: some of the projects the centre has tackled
3. A PVC factory: how the Aarhus centre helped the Nordisk Wavin glueworks when it presented health problems
4. Building site in Rotterdam: the role of the safety inspector
5. The Renault Works (industrial vehicles): how to cut noise and vibrations in a factory

Programme 2

The role of women in improving health and safety at work:

1. Model safe farm, Portleash, Ireland: the contribution made by farmers' wives in improving children's safety on the farm
2. Safety video: the Irish Farm Workers' Union produced a video about safety on farms, to be shown in all primary schools in Ireland
3. Repetitive strain injury (RSI): how a Danish printworks adapted its premises to protect workers from RSI
4. Hospital kitchens: the kitchens at the Aarhus psychiatric hospital provide a model for protecting the health of employees, especially when handling chemicals
5. Becoming a safety officer: the work of a safety officer in the United Kingdom

1.4. Competitions

(Item II.C.1.a of the Annex to the Council Decision)

ISSA competition

The Commission and the International Social Security Association (ISSA) jointly organized a competition on safety education and training.

Prizes were awarded for the best education and training material on the prevention of health and safety hazards within the following seven categories: 'general and vocational training', 'higher education', 'occupational health and safety experts', 'agriculture', 'construction', 'fishing' and 'industrial activities'.

Two hundred and twenty projects from all Member States were submitted.

The jury, comprising representatives of the ISSA and the Commission, awarded a prize in each category.

The supreme award went to a training course for farmers and their children submitted by the Irish Farmers' Association.

The jury highly commended the project submitted by the Danish Labour Inspection Service.

In view of the success of the competition and the high quality of the entries, the Commission has started to investigate the formation of a databank to allow the distribution and use of this material at company level.

FEIEA competition

The Commission supported the establishment by the Federation of European Industrial Editors' Associations (FEIEA) of a journalism competition designed to raise the awareness of company information bodies and to reward the best articles devoted to health and safety at work.

When the competition had closed, bipartite (FEIEA/EC) national juries selected 17 finalists from the 150 applications meeting the competition criteria.

The jury nominated one prize winner for EC Member States and for non-EC countries in Category I of the competition for general articles on safety, hygiene and health protection at work. In Category II, articles on specific topics, there were two joint winners from the Community and one from outside the Community.

European Health and Safety Prize

The Commission threw its weight behind this competition organized in cooperation with the Labour Inspection Service Directorate (Arbejdstilsynet) in Denmark for a product significantly improving health and safety conditions at the workplace.

Of the 19 projects submitted, three were nominated for awards: a Spanish project (Cepren), a Danish project (Gram Factory) and an Italian project (Fiat).

Two projects were highly commended: a Dutch project (Stratingh College) and a British project (Health Services Advisory Committee).

The Cepen project, which was awarded the first prize, is designed to provide employers and workers with the information and other resources to equip small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) with an organization and structure capable of dealing with current and future health and safety requirements at the workplace. This scheme is worthy of imitation by employers and workers throughout Europe.
