PERSPECTIVES FOR THE COMMON AGRICULTURAL POLICY (GREEN PAPER).

Following consultations held with the agricultural sectors concerned on the green paper, the Commission submitted to the Council a communication setting out a series of guidelines for the future of European agriculture. The communication was accompanied by a memorandum on beef and veal which, like the memorandum on cereals submitted on 18 and 19 November, provided for a series of adjustments to the market organization for beef and veal.

The guidelines worked out by the Commission identified the following priorities in particular:

- gradual adjustment of production in sectors in surplus;
- greater diversity and improvement of the quality of production;
- consideration of the income problems of small family farms;
- support for agriculture in areas where it is essential for land-use planning, maintenance of social balance and protection of the environment and the landscape;
- making farmers more aware of environmental issues;
- contribution to the development in the Community of industries which process agricultural produce and involvement of agriculture in the profound technological changes of our time.

19/20.XII.85

As the communication had just been submitted, the Council confined itself at this meeting to an initial, general reaction. The discussion which took place indicated the need for the Community to have a general strategy for the development of markets and agricultural structures designed to restore market balance, within the framework of the Community budget, for the various agricultural products in structural surplus.

At the end of its discussion the Council noted the Commission's intention of submitting concrete proposals concerning adjustments to the market organization for cereals and meat before the end of January 1986, with submission of the proposals concerning 1986/1987 prices being scheduled for February 1986.

TABLE OLIVES

Given the lack of a market organization for table olives, Greece had been authorized, on the basis of Article 70 of the Accession Treaty, to maintain its own system of market organization for that product until 31 December 1985.

Since the Commission considered at this juncture that it was not necessary to set up a market organization for that product, under Article 93(2) of the EEC Treaty the Council adopted, a Decision authorizing Greece to maintain until 31 December 1987 the national aid measures that were strictly necessary in order to maintain the present income of a producer of table olives.

REGULATIONS TO BE ADOPTED IN PREPARATION FOR THE ACCESSION OF SPAIN AND PORTUGAL

The Council recorded its agreement in principle to the level of the tariff quotas to be opened for the Canary Islands for the following products:

- tomatoes, cucumbers, aubergines;
- new potatoes and avocados;
- beans, onions and sweet peppers;
- fresh flowers and certain other floricultural products.

These quotas are based on Article 4 of Protocol No 2 to the Treaty of Accession.

The Council agreed that it would adopt these Regulations at a forthcoming meeting.

The Council also recorded its agreement to other items still outstanding, namely:

- national aids which the two acceding countries are authorized to maintain on a transitional basis in the agricultural sector;
- premiums for the abandonment of wine-growing. This Regulation basically adapts the level of the premiums for the abandonment of vineyards in the case of Spain in order to take account of the specific wine-growing conditions in that country;
- the Regulation making the adaptations necessary for application of the provisions for the common organization of the market in sheepmeat in the acceding States.

These Regulations will be formally adopted at a forthcoming meeting, after finalization of the texts.

In the sphere of veterinary harmonization, the Council recorded its agreement to a Decision enabling Spain and Portugal to benefit from the Community's financial programme for the eradication of classical swine fever. The Decision will be formally adopted at a forthcoming meeting.

HORMONES

Following lengthy discussion, the Council decided to apply the written procedure to the amended Commission proposal, which was examined at the present meeting, and in the main incorporated the elements of the compromise to which a large majority had agreed at the Council's last meeting.

This text introduces as from 1 January 1988 a series of measures concerning the treatment of animals with hormonal substances, in particular:

- a total ban for all Community production on administering such substances for fattening purposes;
- a restriction on the possibility of therapeutic treatment using only natural substances (Oestradiol 17B, Testosterone and Progesterone);
- the setting up, after negotiations between the Commission and the third countries concerned, of a system of import guarantees to be adopted using the Veterinary Committee procedure, or failing that, suspension of imports from those third countries which do not provide the guarantees requested;
- establishing the inspection procedures for this ban by bringing into force on 1 January 1987 Directive 85/358/EEC, which lays down general rules for inspection, and agreement in principle on the frequency of inspection (in the context of the Directive on residue-inspection, which can be formally approved only after receipt of the Opinion of the European Parliament). Basically, the Council approach regarding the latter text is for each Member State to submit an inspection plan to be approved under the Standing Veterinary Committee procedure.

19/20.XII.85

In connection with this Decision, the Council noted that the Commission would be submitting a proposal to the Standing Veterinary Committee under Article 9 of the Directive, granting the United Kingdom a derogation for application of the ban to the United Kingdom market, and would ensure that such a derogation did not result in distortions of competition.

Pending introduction of the new arrangements, those Member States already applying a total ban will be able to make the introduction of animals and meat into their territory subject to the condition that such animals have not been treated and that meat does not come from treated animals.

LAYING HENS

The Council agreed to defer examination of this item to a forthcoming meeting.

Apres une longue session qui a debute hier matin a 10.30h les ministres se sont separees cette nuit, apres avoir atteint un resultat remarquable, a savoir une conclusion positive en matiere du dossier "Hormones".

Ce dernier dossier qui a figure a l'ordre du jour depuis plusieurs mois, a pu etre finalise cette nuit par le biais d'un accord politique souscrit par la majorite qualifiee du Conseil relative a la proposition de compromis etablie par la Commission. La formule de compromis reflete dans une tres large mesure les lignes de compromis dessinees lors de la session precedente et elle comporte notamment les elements suivants :

1. a partir du 1.1.1988 l'utilisation de toutes les hormones et/ou substances a effet hormonale pour des fins d'engraissement est interdite pour l'ensemble du territoire communautaire pour la production nationale ainsi que pour les echanges intra- et extra-communautaires;
2. par la procedure "modalites de gestion" et notamment ;le Comite veterinaire, il sera procede de la sorte qu'il y aurait une derogation pour le RU, ce dernier ne devant respecter l'interdiction des hormones qu'a partir du 1.1.1989;
3. la proposition souscrite d'apres les modalites precisees, se base sur l'article 43 du Traite, permettant ainsi une decision a la majorite qualifiee.

L'accord politique comme il s'est degage n'a pas pu etre souscrit par les 3 delegations : RU, DK, IRL. Les 2 premieres delegations tout en pouvant accepter la substance de l'accord enregistre ont insiste pour que la base juridique de la proposition en ne se base pas seulement sur l'article 43 mais eggalement sur l'article 100 du Traite, ce dernier article portant sur le rapprochement des legislations et necessitant une decision a l'unanimitate.

Il est a rappeler que dans le cadre de l'accord du dernier sommet de Luxembourg, une nouvelle redaction de l'article 100 a ete convenue afin de permettre dans le domaine de l'harmonisation de la legislation une decision a la majorite qualifiee envisageable, etant entendu que les regles derogatoires restent possibles; dans la mesure ou la legislation nationale (par exemple dans le domaine veterinaire) prescrit des dispositions plus rigides que celles envisagees au niveau communaltaire.

C'est cet "esprit de Luxembourg" qui a ammen M. Andriessen a insister aupres du Conseil pour que ce dernier ne se limite qu'a la reference a l'article 43 et donc pas a l'article 100 dans sa version encore valable - la nouvelle redaction faisant encore sujet d'une procedure de ratification au niveau des Etats-membres.

La delegation irlandaise n'a pas pu s'associer a la majorite du fait qu'elle n'a pas pu accepter un traitement derogatoire pour le RU, une telle derogation conduisant, de l'avis de cette delegation, a des distorsions de concurrence notamment au point de vue des echanges.

Il est à noter que le compromis convenu stipule que pour la période transitoire, c'est à dire pour la période entre 1.1.1988 et 1.1.1989, concernant les exportations en provenance du RU vers les autres Etats-membres, le RU doit certifier pour que toutes ces exportations portent sur des produits qui n'ont pas été traités par des hormones.

L'accord politique enregistre doit encore être formalisé par la procédure écrite, cette dernière expirant avant le 30 décembre 1985.

En ce qui concerne les autres points de l'ordre du jour il n'y a pas d'observations particulières à faire, sauf qu'il reste à signaler que le Conseil a donné son accord définitif sur l'ensemble de la réglementation établie pour permettre la mise en vigueur des dispositions agricoles en Espagne et au Portugal.

D'autre part le Conseil a, par le biais d'un tour de table, entamé un premier débat relatif à des conclusions générales de la Commission sur la base du Livre Vert, et notamment la communication établie par la Commission sur le libellé : "un avenir pour la PAC" (P-107). Ce tour de table n'a pas dégagé des éléments très spectaculaires, bien qu'il est apparu clairement que la grande majorité des délégations peuvent souscrire en principe à l'approche préconisée par la Commission relatif à la réforme de la PAC, et qui vise la combinaison d'une politique de prix restrictive avec d'autres éléments notamment une politique de qualité, un assouplissement des modalités d'intervention et le renforcement du principe de la coresponsabilité. Seulement la délégation britannique a confirmé sa préférence nette pour une politique visant une réduction linéaire de prix pour tous les secteurs caractérisés par les excédents.

Les ministres, vu le manque de temps, n'ont pas entamé un débat sur les 2 memorandums spécifiques soumis par la Commission, dont un porte sur la réforme du secteur des céréales, et l'autre sur l'aménagement du secteur de la viande bovine. Le débat relatif à la réforme de la PAC, y compris une discussion sur les 2 derniers memorandums, est certainement à prévoir pour la prochaine session du Conseil prévue pour le 20 et 21 janvier 1986.
