

Name: DAVID HAWORTH
Born: 17.1.41. Blackburn, Lancashire,
United Kingdom.
Educated: Westminster School, London.
University College, London University.

Magazine feature writer, Odhams Press and Conde Nast Publications.

Radio and Television critic for the BBC weekly, THE LISTENER. Fiction reviewer, NEW STATESMAN.

Joined THE OBSERVER in 1965 as a general reporter involved mainly in preparing the news background feature, 'Daylight'. Was later appointed the paper's Industrial Correspondent and covered a wide range of industrial, economic and labour relations stories for both the news and business sections of the paper, travelling extensively in Britain and Europe.

Wrote for others sections of the paper and THE OBSERVER syndicated news service.

Remained as Industrial Correspondent until the end of 1971 before taking up appointment as the paper's European Correspondent with a special brief to cover economic, political and Common Market affairs.

At the same time appointed EEC Correspondent of the U.S.-owned INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, Paris and also EEC Correspondent for Ireland's largest circulation daily, THE IRISH INDEPENDENT, Dublin.

Occasional contributor to THE GUARDIAN, London, and regular commentator on EEC affairs for the political weekly, NEW STATESMAN.

Former President, British Section, the Association of European Journalists. Currently on AEJ International Committee.

Chairman, Brussels Branch, National Union of Journalists.

Winner, 'Golden Hercules' Award for Common Market coverage presented by Italian Prime Minister, Rome, February, 1973.

Recipient U.S. State Department 'Leader Grant' of six weeks' travel in America: March-April 1973.

Joint winner, 'European Journalism Prize', presented by the European Commission, December, 1975.

Travel: U.S.A., Canada, whole of Western Europe, Turkey, Lebanon, Poland and East Germany.

Countries of special interest: Holland, Finland and German Federal Republic.

Personal Cinema, Music, Reading, Hunting, Sea-fishing, Interests Cooking and Train travel.
and hobbies: