COMMISSION REPORT TO THE COUNCIL

on coopertaion with European non-governmental organizations (NGOs) active in the development field with special reference to the cofinancing of projects (1982 Budget)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. At its meeting on 28 November 1977 the Council of Ministers (Development) approved the procedure to be followed for the use of the appropriations for the financing of projects with non-governmental organisations (NGOs). *)

That procedure includes a stipulation that the Commission will present an annual report to the Council on the use of the credits allocated during the preceding year.

In accordance with that procedure the Commission presents this Report, which deals with the use made of the budget of 28 M ECU entered under Article 941 of the 1982 Community Budget.

2. Although relations with the NGOs are mainly in the field of project cofinancing in developing countries, other important areas for co-operation with the NGOs are also covered, such as development education in the Communities, food aid, emergency aid and inter-NGO coordination.

1. INTRODUCTION

For over 20 years now the European Communities have been pursuing a development policy which has progressively widened its scope and become more structured as a result of the accession of new Member States and the inclusion of additional developing countries.

The direct cooperation between the European Communities and the non-governmental organizations (NGOs) began in 1976 with the aim of adding a further dimension to the Community's development policy. The idea was to enable the Community to take an active part, with public funds, in the expression of solidarity shown by Europe at a non-official level towards the poorest sections of the population in the Third World. That objective was reflected initially in the establishment of a Community budget heading to finance, with the European NGOs, development projects in the developing countries. The budget, fixed on an experimental basis at 2.5 m ECU in 1976, increased progressively in subsequent years to cope with a constant increase in the requests for cofinancing submitted by the NGOs. This budget rose to 14 m ECU in 1981 and was then increased to 28 m ECU in 1982 notably as a result of an additional transfer made in the context of the special programme to combat hunger in the world.

As a result of the constantly increasing level of interest shown by the NGOs in this form of cooperation, the requests for cofinancing which merit action have always far exceeded the annual budget appropriations, even when the budget was doubled from 1981 to 1982.

Between 1976 and 1982 inclusive, the total Community subsidy amounted to 81 m ECU and enabled 1.116 projects to be financed in 106 developing countries with 187 NGOs. For the same period, the total combined NGO-EEC investment amounted to 212 m. ECU. In addition, over the same period, the Communities financed 103 projects to educate European public opinion; these projects involved 67 NGOs and an amount of 2.4 m ECU.

Compared with other items in the Community development budget, these figures may seem relatively modest. The Commission is nevertheless convinced that the multiplier effect of this large number of small operations is considerable and easily bears comparison with "conventional" projects. The success of the cofinanced operations is due above all, in the Commission's view, to the high degree of motivation and personal commitment of the NGOs, their independence from any external conditioning, their relatively modest size and the autonomy and flexibility of management that is the corollary of this. The interaction of these positive factors is generally reflected, at the level of the conception and execution of projects in the developing countries, in a marked degree of effectiveness, speed and flexibility, and above all in the capacity of the NGOs to adapt their action - almost from one day to the next - in response to any economic, political and technical changes that are taking place.

The Commission for its part has undertaken to respect and encourage the characteristics peculiar to the NGOs, such as their autonomy (the NGOs have an exclusive right of initiative as regards the presentation of projects) and their plurality based on the extreme diversity of motivations that are encountered among these organizations. In its relations with the NGOs, the Commission demonstrates its confidence in their deep-rooted motivation and real capacities. In the vast majority of cases, this confidence - often founded on over five years cooperation - has been fully justified by the results.

The cofinancing of development projects in the developing countries is, however, only one of the various forms of cooperation between the NGOs and the Communities. Other aspects, which are just as important, are the support given to NGOs for operations to raise European public awareness on development matters, cooperation in the distribution of food aid and in emergency operations and the catalyst role which the Commission endeavours to play in the context of inter-NGO cooperation at the European level via a constant dialogue with the NGOs at both individual and collective level.

In 1982, the Community contribution to the NGOs represented a total sum of 112.6 m ECU (28 m ECU for cofinancing operations, 45 m. ECU for food aid and 39.6 m. ECU for emergency aid).

This report sets out to give an account of the Commission's activities in 1982 dealing in turn with the various aspects of cooperation with the NGOs and without forgetting the contacts with the other European institutions and the prospects and trends already taking shape for 1983.

2. ALLOCATION OF COMMUNITY AID IN 1982

2.1. Cofinancing of NGO projects in developing countries (budget article 941)

2.1.1. Commitments and payments

Budget article 941, which had initially been fixed at 20 m ECU for 1982, received in October 1982 an additional transfer of 8 m ECU under the special programme to combat hunger in the world. As a result, the sum finally available in 1982 was 28 m ECU, exactly twice the budget of 14 m ECU which had been allocated for 1981.

This increase, considerable in itself, was nevertheless matched by an equally spectacular increase in the requests received, which fully confirms moreover the trend of previous years. The Commission departments were presented with 458 requests for projects, for a total value of 47.8 m ECU. Of these projects, it was possible to cofinance 262, representing a total Community contribution of 25.5 m ECU. Another 85 projects for a total sum of 8.2 m ECU were not selected or were withdrawn by the applicant NGOs. Lastly, 111 admissible requests corresponding to a total sum of 14 m ECU, had to be carried over to 1983.

It should be noted that only the extremely short amount of time available (the additional amount of 8m ECU was not definitively confirmed until October 1982) prevented the Commission departments from once again committing the whole of the budget by the end of December 1982.

A quick comparison of the figures for 1981 and 1982 clearly shows the growing interest of the NGOs in cooperating with the Commission:

	1981		1982
	Number of projects	in m ECU	Number of projects	in m ECU
Requests received	359	35,2	458	47,8
Projects cofinanced (commitments)	164	13,5	262	25,5
Projects rejected or withdrawn	67	10,7	85	8,2
Projects carried over to the following year	128	11,0	111	14,1
Payments effected	-	13,0	-	18,4

Thus, although the budget doubled in 1982, the admissible projects which had to be carried over to the following budget were nevertheless 27 % up on the 1981 figure.

The total payments of 18.4 m ECU effected in 1982 include 9.7 ECU covering commitments for 1982 and 8.7 m ECU covering commitments of previous years. The payment appropriation allocated for 1982 proved this time to be sufficient to meet the Commission's obligations during the year.

Table I in annex provides a breakdown by Member State of the 1982 allocations of Community funds.

2.1.2. Type and scale of the projects

Table II in annex gives a full list of the 262 projects cofinanced in 1982 in the developing countries.

As in previous years, the content of the projects is striking for its very great variety. What the projects all have in common, however, is the objective of satisfying the basic needs felt by the recipient population. As is shown by Table III in annex, the majority of the operations cofinanced can be classified in three main categories, rural development (42 %), training (20 %) and health (18 %). It should be noted, however, that most of the projects fall within more than one sector, which reflects the integrated approach which is characteristic of NGO operations.

Although the three basic categories mentioned above repeat the standard breakdown of previous years, it will be seen, however, that in 1982 a larger role was given to rural development (42 % compared with 26 % in 1981) and particularly to small scale agriculture based on the production of food-stuffs for local consumption. At the same time as the special Community programme to combat hunger in the world was published, a group of six NGOs from among the most active organizations in Europe formed themselves into an ad hoc consortium which presented 27 projects to the Commission, for a total sum of 5 m ECU, concentrating specifically on subsistence agriculture. During 1982, it was possible to cofinance 15 of these projects at a total cost of 2.9 m ECU.

In addition, a number of operations linking up with one or other of the topics specifically favoured by the special programme (notably small-scale water supply, alternative energy sources, low energy consumption appliances, agricultural credit, etc.) were cofinanced by the Communities. The Commission can only welcome both this convergence of ideas and initiatives and the specifically European nature of this consortium (the six member NGOs belong to six different Member States).

As regards the scale of the cofinanced projects, the average Community contribution amounted in 1982 to 85.841 ECU per project. Even though the Community contribution can amount to 360.000 ECU over three years, it exceeded 200.000 ECU in only 36 cases, while in 99 cases, its participation was less than 50.000 ECU. This confirms the determination of the NGOs, particularly in certain Member States, to remain faithful to the basic principle of "small is beautiful", and this despite the inflationary pressures felt both in Europe and in the developing countries.

2.1.3. The multiplier effect of the Community contribution

The total joint investment of the NGOs and the Communities in cofinanced projects amounted in 1982 to almost 60 m ECU, which represents a multiplier factor of approximately 2.4 times the budget allocated. This confirms the capacity of the NGOs to mobilize a considerable level of own resources despite the economic crisis.

2.1.4. The NGOs

In 1982, 107 NGOs (36 of them for the first time) received one or more cofinancing grants. This was 20 up on 1981, confirming on the one hand the continued interest of the NGOs in the Commission's activity and on the other hand the Commission's concern for diversification. Such diversification should be all the greater in future as the Community cofinancing system becomes better known, and notably if the Greek NGOs were to manifest an interest in financing operations with the Commission as the latter hopes. In the longer term, the accession of new Member States would obviously result in an increase in the number of European NGOs cooperating with the Communities.

There were 25 block grants made in 1982 for a total sum of 1.1 m ECU. The possibility of increasing the percentage of the budget currently allocated to block grants (4 %) in accordance with the wish voiced by certain NGOs and in line with the practice followed in certain Member States is being studied.

Lastly, it should be stated that certain European NGOs have raised the question of the commencement at a future date of direct cofinancing between the Commission and certain developing country NGOs.

2.1.5. Populations and beneficiary countries

The 262 development projects cofinanced in 1982 were carried out in 82 developing countries, of which 7 were covered for the first time. In general, the balance between ACP States and non-ACP States was modified slightly in favour of the latter. The first group received 12.1 m ECU (48 %) and the second group 13.3 m ECU (52 %), the corresponding percentage for 1981 being 51 % and 49 % respectively.

The geographical breakdown shows that 46 % of the funds went to Africa, 15 % to Asia, 28 % to Latin America, 10 % to the Mediterranean countries and 1 % to the Pacific.

In 1982, 53% of the total credits available were allocated to countries with a per capita GNP of less than US $ 500, while 9.5 % went to developing countries with a per capita GNP of less than US $ 200. 30 % of the credits available were allocated to the least developed countries according to the United Nations list. In general, the cofinanced projects are aimed by definition at the poorest sections of the population in the developing countries, where the per capita GNP often has only an indicative statistical value sometimes hiding flagrant inequalities.

Finally, the NGOs also confirmed in 1982 their commitment to their front-line role, including and above all in regions of the world where the situation is particularly difficult or even dangerous for the personnel involved. To quote only one example, the NGOs immediately joined in the very first stage of reconstruction work in Lebanon, thereby enabling the Commission to contribute, just before the closure of the 1982 Budget, to 11 projects for a total sum of 0.9 m ECU, in addition of course to the emergency operations financed by the Communities under other headings.

2.2. Cofinancing of operations to raise European public awareness on development matters carried out by the NGOs (budget article 941)

The exponential growth in cooperation between the Commission and the NGOs in this area reflects the increasing importance which the European NGOs attach to the work of making public opinion more aware of the interdependence between North and South.

A total of 64 projects were received, representing a sum of 2.1 m ECU. Of these projects, 46 were financed with 43 different NGOs at a total cost of 1.3 m ECU. A list is given in Annex IV.

Many of these projects deal with the links between Europe and the Third World in the industrial and agricultural fields, in accordance with the priorities identified by the most recent NGO General Assemblies. The work in the formal educational sector also received particular attention with an increasing participation of teachers and other professional educators.

In general terms, the Commission is satisfied with the quality of the projects put forward for cofinancing but would stress the need to develop a longer term view of education policy both in governmental and non-governmental organizations, as well as the introduction of a greater level of professional expertise at the project planning stage.

In parallel with the work it carries out with the individual NGOs and their projects, the Commission has also encouraged cooperation between the NGOs themselves via its support for informal networks of like-minded NGOs. The function of these networks is to facilitate the exchange of information and experience, thereby making it possible to avoid duplication of effort and promote a transnational view of the problem. In this context, considerable advances have been made as regards the work on agricultural problems and the work in the schools. Meetings at the European level were organized by professionals in 1982 in these two fields and provided positive results.

The Commission should continue to support such initiatives since it is to be anticipated that other groups of NGOs will begin to organize themselves at the European level.

A first evaluation study on some development education projects already cofinanced was commenced in 1982. The preliminary results confirm the useful work carried out by the NGOs with very limited resources but stress the essential need to develop more specific criteria as regards the choice and formulation of the projects. In the light of these remarks and in order to respond to the increasing number of requests, the Commission is currently re-examining its existing rules for cofinancing in this area and will propose a revised text in 1983.

The Commission met with the development education subcommittee of the NGO Liaison Committee on various occasions during 1982. Cooperation with this body continued to be fruitful and the Commission thanks its members for their contribution and understanding.

2.3. Community food aid channelled through the NGOs (budget chapter 92)

In the context of the Community's food aid programme for 1982, 27.000 tonnes of skimmed milk powder, 2.000 tonnes of butteroil and 22.000 tonnes of cereals were allocated to various developing countries through European NGOs, mostly affiliated to churches. Furthermore, the NGOs were actively involved in the Community's emergency food aid programmes for example in favour of the refugees in El Salvador. In this particular case, the NGOs will forward the following additional quantities: 100 tonnes of butteroil, 400 tonnes of skimmed milk powder and 500 tonnes of beans.

The total value at world price of the food aid allocated via the NGOs in 1982 amounts to 45 m ECU. More detailed information is given in Table V.

Lastly, reference should be made to the positive role played during the year by the Euronaïd structure which enables the European NGOs active in the food aid field to coordinate with one another and also enables the Commission to have a single opposite number in this field.

2.4. Community emergency aid channelled through the NGOs (budget article 950 and Article 137 of the Lome Convention)

In 1982, the emergency aid operations implemented through the intermediary of the NGOs represented a total amount of 39.6 m ECU, or two and a half times the level of 1981 operations. In 1982 these operations accounted for over 40 % of total Community emergency aid (compared with 24 % in 1981).

Two major operations dominated activities during the year:

- the aid to Poland accounted for 27 m ECU, of which 17.5 m ECU for deliveries carried out in 1982, corresponding to the supply of almost 14.000 tonnes of foodstuffs, medicines, etc.;
- the NGOs implemented over 8 m ECU out of the 35 m ECU granted by the Community to refugees in third countries; under this heading, assistance programmes were organized to help refugees in South-East Asia, Afghan refugees in Pakistan and refugees and displaced persons in Angola and Central America. Other operations in favour of displaced persons in Africa (Chad, Ethiopia) were also carried out by NGOs.

The NGOs were also active in the organization of assistance to the victims of natural disasters: floods, droughts, earthquakes or typhoons. Their operations covered both ACP-countries (cyclones in Madagascar, epidemics in Zaïre) and third countries in other continents (floods in Bolivia, Honduras, Nicaragua and Yemen, earthquake in Yemen).

Along the lines of the food aid sector the ad hoc coordination body set up at the NGO level has begun a fruitful collaboration between the Commission and the specialist European NGOs in the area of emergency operations as well.

In addition the Commission's attention has been drawn to the problem raised by certain situations which are de facto not covered, given the present structure of NGO-EC cooperation, either by emergency aid (budget article 950), or by the cofinancing of development projects (budget article 941). The most recent example of this "grey area" concerns the Ghanaian nationals following their reintegration into their place of origin.

It is evident that such situations, even if at present they do not fall within the scope of emergency aid or standard development projects, could and should be eased by operations at a half-way stage, which could be called "rehabilitation" operations. The Commission must adapt its budget instruments to cope with rehabilitation requests from the NGOs and relating to these types of situation, which are unfortunately increasingly numerous.

2.5. Support for inter-NGO coordination at European level (budget article 941)

In its report to the Council for 1981, the Commission endeavoured to stress its interest - over and above cofinancing operations with individual NGOs - in the ongoing dialogue with all NGOs on a collective basis. On that occasion, it provided a fairly detailed description of the machinery for the democratic representation of the European NGOs in contact with the Communities via the institutional bodies progressively established (National Assemblies, European Assembly, Liaison Committee).

The year 1982 confirmed the validity of the system, which became even stronger and now seems to have achieved normal operating conditions. The Liaison Committee met six times during the year and several other meetings were organized in Brussels, particularly with regard to the education of public opinion and the coordination of NGO- EC cooperation in the fields of food aid and emergency operations.

The Liaison Committee was allocated an amount of 145.454 ECU in 1982 to cover its operating costs. The Commission is aware that this amount represents a considerable increase on the 1981 allocation (59.615 ECU). It considers, however, that this allocation is justified by the new tasks which the Liaison Committee is increasingly assuming and carrying out (notably with regard to food aid and emergency aid) and by the expenditure which such tasks entail (notably the recruitment of an administrative secretary, resident in Brussels, responsible for ensuring continuity in the activities of the Committee, whose members are resident in the various Member States). In addition, the Commission would stress that certain costs paid for directly by the Liaison Committee in 1982 (in particular travel expenses and mission allowances in Brussels) were up to 1981 paid for out of the Commission's operating budget, which is now therefore relieved of the said expenditure.

2.6. Miscellaneous activities

Among the various activities not immediately classifiable under any of the above headings, reference should be made to a specific Commission operation aiming to ensure optimum utilization of the fund of experience accumulated by the NGOs in the development field.

Indeed, the characteristics of autonomy and flexibility which are peculiar to the NGOs enable them to experiment directly in the field with new ideas or techniques entailing a relatively high level of risk while ensuring that there is the smallest possible time lag between conception, execution and analysis of the results. This comparative advantage has enabled the NGOs to accumulate a considerable and varied body of data, sometimes unpublished, regarding development at "grass roots" level - in the technical, sociological, ecological fields, etc. These ideas have the advantage of being based on experimentation which has already been carried out and evaluated in practical terms and which can therefore be reproduced, with all necessary prudence, in the same socio-cultural context.

The Commission therefore began in 1982 a study which proposes to analyse first of all the NGO projects cofinanced to date by the Communities with a view to pinpointing those which reflect an original approach to standard problems. Eight specific topics linked to the satisfaction of basic needs in the spirit of the special programme to combat hunger in the world, have been selected (village reforestation and techniques for saving firewood, village water supply, optimum use of oilseeds, conservation and processing of cereals, alternative construction methods, utilization of agricultural and household waste, savings and rural credit).

As soon as the results of this initial phase - which are expected shortly - are available, the analysis can be widened to bring in a certain number of European NGOs which are particularly qualified in this area. The Commission hopes that this operation will make it possible to identify the technologies and approaches that can be taken over and transposed, or even generalized, both by NGO circles and by providers of public funds.

Finally, the problems of volunteers received the Commission's particular attention in 1982. Following contacts established with specialized NGOs, a joint NGO-CEC working party was set up to tackle certain problems, notably in the social security field, and place them in a European context.

3. INSTITUTIONAL CONTACTS

The contacts between the Committee on Development and Cooperation of the European Parliament and the Liaison Committee continued in 1982.

The special interest which Parliament continues to show in the activities of the development NGOs was once again confirmed by the presence of its President, Mr Dankert, at the opening of the European Assembly of NGOs on 30 March 1982.

The Council's Working Party on Development Cooperation took note in May 1982 of the Commission's annual report for 1981. Constructive discussions on the various aspects of EC-NGO cooperation also took place during the second half of the year.

On 22 September 1982, the Commission departments organized a meeting in Brussels between the officials with special responsibility for cooperation with the respective national NGOs in the Member States' administrations. That meeting, the first since November 1979, made it possible to obtain an idea of the similar features and also of the specific national features of the government approach to the various aspects of cooperation with the NGOs (cofinancing, education of public opinion, food aid, emergency aid, volunteers). This analysis work was set out in synoptic tables permitting a systematic comparison of the various cooperation arrangements between the Member States and the NGOs and also between the organizations and the Commission.

The second part of the meeting, which brought in the members of the Liaison Committee, enabled the latter to put their viewpoint in a European context and to carry out an assessment of the administrations' ideas and prospects for their cooperation with the NGOs in the years to come.

In the unanimous view of the participants, the meeting had been extremely useful and deserved to be repeated at closer intervals.

4. TRENDS AND PROSPECTS

The year 1982 was characterized by a considerable intensification of cooperation with the NGOs, which demonstrated their capacity to utilize without problems or interruption a cofinancing budget that had been suddenly doubled. Moreover, the NGOs were able to cope with the increased role which the Commission entrusted to them in the matter of emergency operations, notably in Poland.

In this context, it would appear that 1983 will be a period of consolidation. The revised general conditions of cofinancing were introduced at the beginning of 1982 and have not raised any major problems in their application, which will thus continue. A draft revision of the general conditions for the cofinancing of development education projects is currently being prepared and will be the subject of consultations with the NGOs before being finalized.

The percentage of the funds earmarked for development education in Europe will be revised in the light of the increased total budget availabilities, the objective being the 10 % of article 941 which the majority of the NGOs have insistently called for on many occasions. It is certain that the renegotiation of the second Lome Convention will be one of the very topical themes in 1983 for the NGOs specializing in public opinion work.

In 1983 the Communities will continue to follow the problems regarding volunteers, increasing the contacts already established with the partners concerned.

It is envisaged that the first NGO-EC project evaluation carried out in 1980 will be followed in 1983-84 by a second enlarged exercise comprising not only NGO-EC projects but also operations either financed by the NGOs with the Member States or financed by the NGOs alone. Preparations for this exercise began at the end of 1982 and will continue in 1983. At the same time, the analysis of appropriable technologies, which is currently being undertaken, will be continued and completed in 1983.

The possibility of increasing the percentage earmarked for block grants and of encouraging the formation of applicant NGOs into consortiums also merits study, without however forgetting the need for diversification.

Finally, although the total cofinancing budget was considerably increased in 1982, it is still the case that despite this increase an equally considerable number of admissible projects (equivalent to 50 % of the 1982 budget and 45 % of the 1983 budget) had to be carried over to 1983. The Commission therefore hopes that the Community decision-making bodies will show the same sensitivity as in the past in response to the confidence shown by the European NGOs in Community cooperation.
